The quietness of thought whispering upon a cry of responsibility, echoing through a world of anticipation . . . and now . . . a student begins to teach, to impart learning upon children unaware of the challenge she faces.

The knowing smile on a child's lips, the wave of his hand, the gleam in his eyes all give reason to her long study, the encouragement to fulfill each day's lesson as a unit of progress.

Time passes through a constant test of patience and knowledge. But . . . when the student realizes full command of her class, senses the core of each child's learning, a transition is made — the teacher becomes manifest.

A memory in pages . . . an experience in pictures . . . a record in print. To our staff the 1962 Index became a dream needing fulfillment and a story demanding expression. Our cast of characters was large, over 300 faculty and almost 5000 students. Our location was small, just a university campus in the heart of Normal. And yet, together, student and campus formed a community, involved in a complex plot of meeting the challenges in teacher education.

Within one year of college life, a student finds maturation rapid. Each day, intellectual, social, and religious questions pursue him; and incessantly the principal teaching demands of knowing one's self and knowing others provoke his thought.

From Student

Our Challenge

To Teacher . . .

in College Life

To the 1962 Index, however, a puzzle remained. How does our University help students meet the challenges of teaching? What specifically are these challenges? For knowledge, what are the students' guides, their tools? And, how do they use them?

In picture and print, therefore, we present these challenges, as they are met in the development from student to teacher. For us, University departments have been the students' tools. Our guides are the administration and faculty. Our use is in social, athletic, organizational, and academic endeavors. And in closing, we complete the story of our community from aerial view to individual picture, from campus to student, from general to specific . . . always bearing in mind that for us students the future depends upon our meeting the challenges in teacher education.

HOVEY HALL

A nucleus of academic life, the administration building houses endless files of records and registration forms for our University students. Within its walls, executives offer guidance in understanding and following school policy. Counselling for individual problems gives students full benefit of a college life.

SCHROEDER HALL

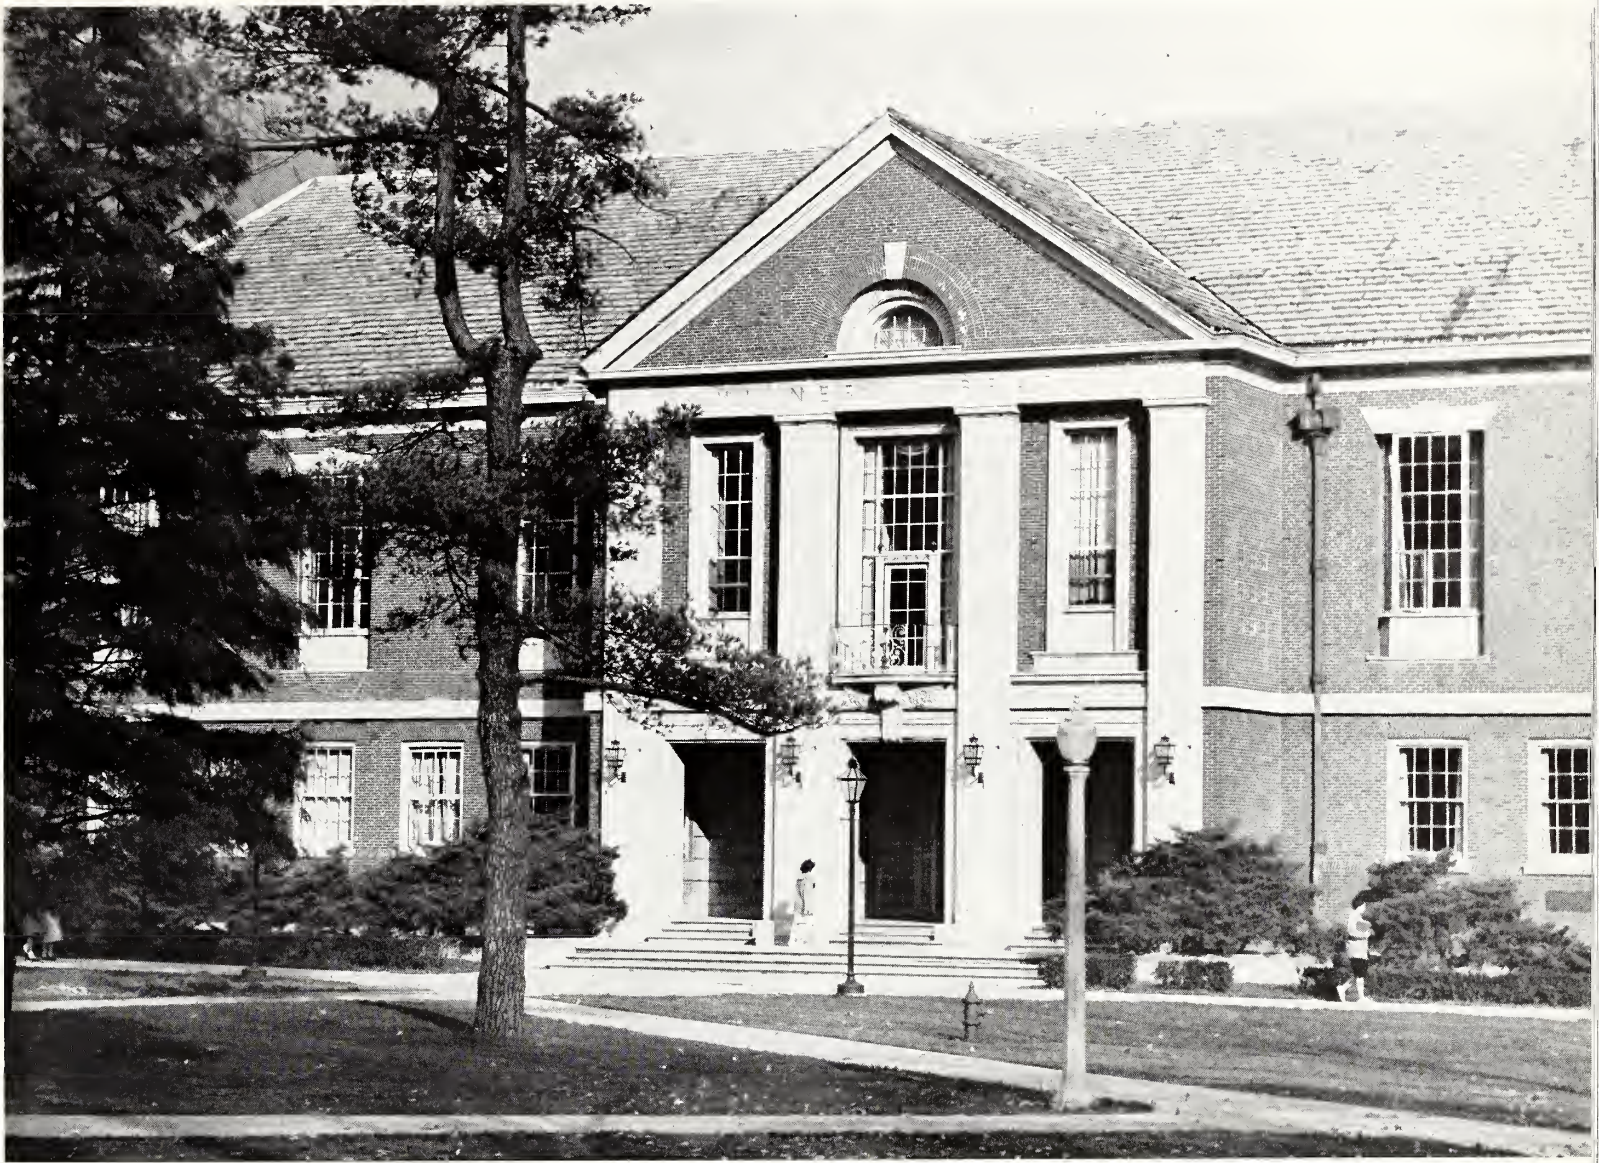

An international style, Schroeder Hall provides well-ventilated, pleasantly lighted classrooms where auditory and visual aids offer experience in learning and learning to teach. To further student opportunities, instructors utilize Schroeder offices.

CENTENNIAL WEST

Located at the southern extreme of our campus, Centennial West receives hundreds of students daily. This building houses new classrooms, laboratories, studios, and practice rooms from which emit the orations of speakers and ideas of inventive artists.

MILNER LIBRARY

Intricate gold and gray scroll work and frescoes of Greek figures at Milner Library inspire the study and research of its vast treasure of knowledge. One can easily agree with Carlyle's saying, "All that mankind has done, thought, gained, or been is lying as in magic preservation in the pages of books."

FELMLEY HALL

Erected in 1892, North Hall served primarily as a training school for student teachers. Then, as years passed, this venerable building met changes. In 1912, it became the library, and since 1940, it has housed departments from agriculture to social sciences.

With the increased pressure of the space age, facts and computations of science rise in importance. Consequently, the classrooms and laboratories in Felmley Hall afford technological equipment to students for practical application of theories and skills.

NORTH HALL

RAMBO HOUSE

Serving as an experimental unit where home economics students gain a realistic application of domestic skills is Rambo House. Here girls live for nine weeks, applying their knowledge of modern household devices and traditional methods of home management.

COOK HALL

Imposing in its portrayal of medieval architecture Cook Hall is "The Castle" in name only, for it contains some of the most modern equipment in today's field of commerce. Invariably, these facilities contribute to student practice in mechanistic skills.

THOMAS METCALF SCHOOL

In the Thomas Metcalf School, local elementary students acquire basic education—a foundation upon which to build their pyramid of knowledge. Here student teachers from our campus gain patience and understanding by teaching not only normal youngsters, but also the physically handicapped and mentally retarded. Each new day brings gratitude and a child's effort in response to a teacher's guidance.

FAIRCHILD HALL

Strength and courage, like the lofty pillars of Fairchild Hall, stand forth as basic frameworks for training handicapped children. The use of therapeutic laboratories and special teaching methods offers these individuals new means to useful adulthood.

UNIVERSITY HIGH SCHOOL

As an academic laboratory, University High School displays additional classroom co-operation which student teaching necessitates. Here latest methods in subject presentation combine with the novice's enthusiasm for relating valuable learning experiences.

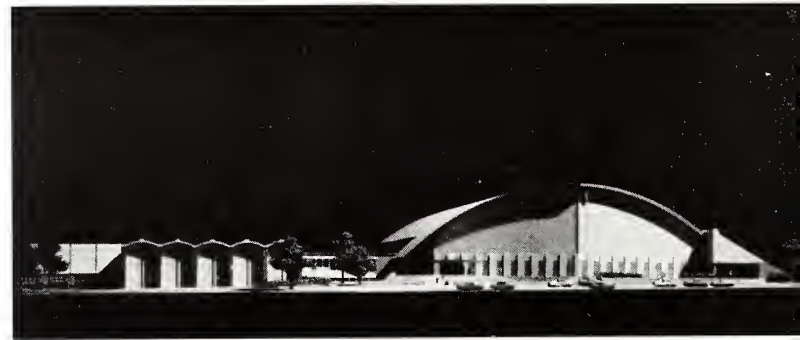

McCORMICK GYM

The sturdy brick frame of McCormick Gym, set off by the blueness of sky, signifies the ideal for which it stands, to promote a development of both strong bodies and strong minds. Skill in using a variety of athletic equipment leads to physical prowess.

From the busy rumble of printing presses to the steady hum of sewing machines, the Industrial Arts Building becomes a composite of mechanical equipment. Capen Auditorium provides a stage for educational and entertaining performances.

A model of the new physical education plant.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS BUILDING

UNIVERSITY UNION

As our center of campus life, the University Union provides the Cage for leisure time get-togethers, lounges for relaxation and study, the ballroom for large meetings and dances, and offices for student governing bodies and campus publications.

CENTENNIAL EAST

For students of music and speech, Centennial East contains rooms necessary for group rehearsals, classes, and individual practice. Accented by a porch of cantilever design, this building also includes Westhoff Theater, the site of dramatic presentations.

HAMILTON- WHITTEN HALL

A stately giant on our campus, "Tall Hall" will be joined next fall by its newly completed double, Atkin-Colby. Impressive with its ten-story steel-glass stature, Hamilton-Whitten Hall now serves more than eight hundred freshman women.

WALKER HALL

Striking in contrast are the three lounges of Walker Hall, presenting sophomore women with opportunities to study or watch TV or to entertain guests in the formal receiving room. Just below lies the cafeteria for serving the Walker and Dunn-Barton residents.

DUNN-BARTON HALLS

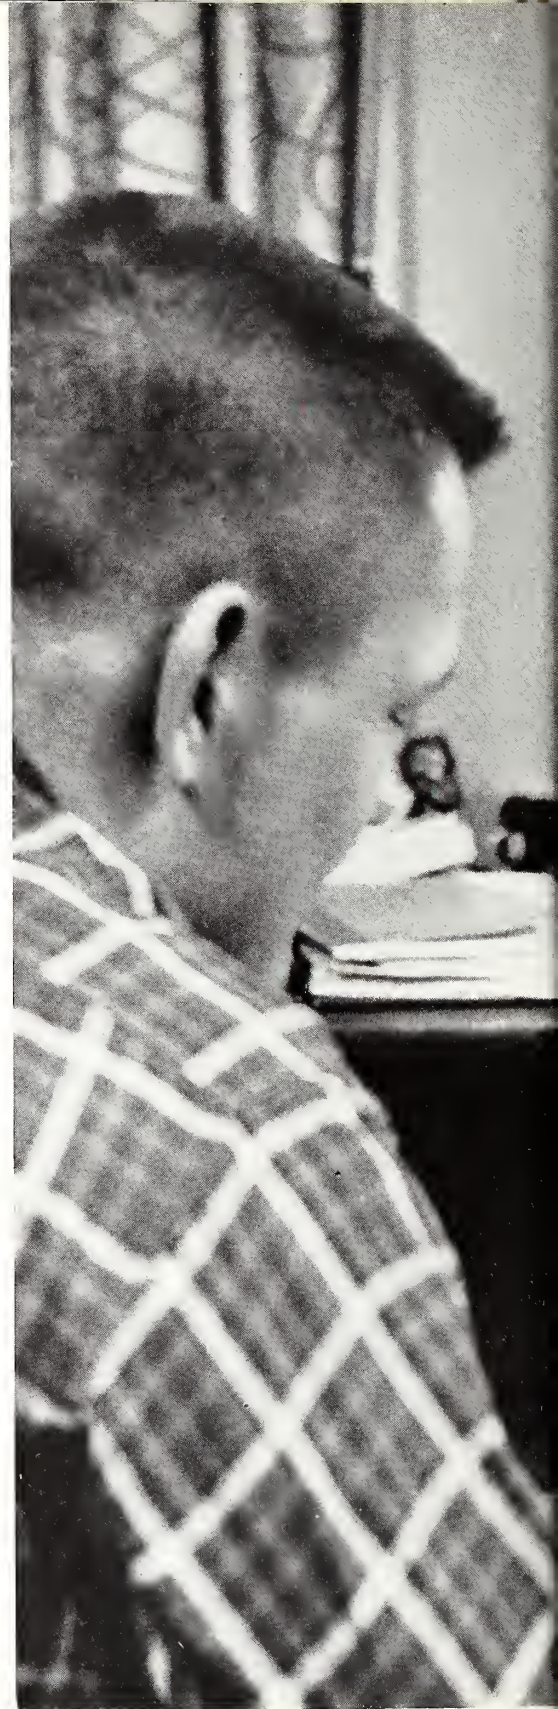

Whether a fellow wishes to study, watch television, or play ping-pong, the Dunn-Barton Residence Halls for men stand ready to accommodate. Centrally located within the maze of functionally designed rooms lies a formal lounge for the receipt of guests.

FELL HALL

In picturesque contrast, the colonial dormers, white-trimmed windows, and tall columns accent the dark red brick of Fell Hall. A women's dorm for juniors and seniors, its on-campus location and warm atmosphere make it a favorite place of study and leisure.

FACULTY

and DEPARTMENTS

In agriculture, a man's training may mean the secret of escaping with the honey and not with the sting.

AGRICULTURE

Lessons of Nature

Tall stalks of corn shimmering in the sunlight and wheat waving in the breeze, hundreds of sheep and cattle growing healthy on a productive land—we can view these pictures on almost any farm in our nation. Harmony between man and nature does not occur by chance, however. Transforming a bountiful countryside into a scientifically planned and operated structure, providing the fuel for a nation, and learning to cope with the stumbling blocks of weather are basic concerns to students in the Agriculture Department. The University farm, an experimental project, produces staple and livestock in teaching the interdependent principles of soil conservation and rotation of crops. Always evaluating machinery and procedures, the Department trains teachers, gaining the support of farm leaders in our state—the greatest agricultural area in the world.

Harvey Woods, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of Agriculture

Newborn calves, fascinated with the world around them, soon realize the importance of their close dependence on man.

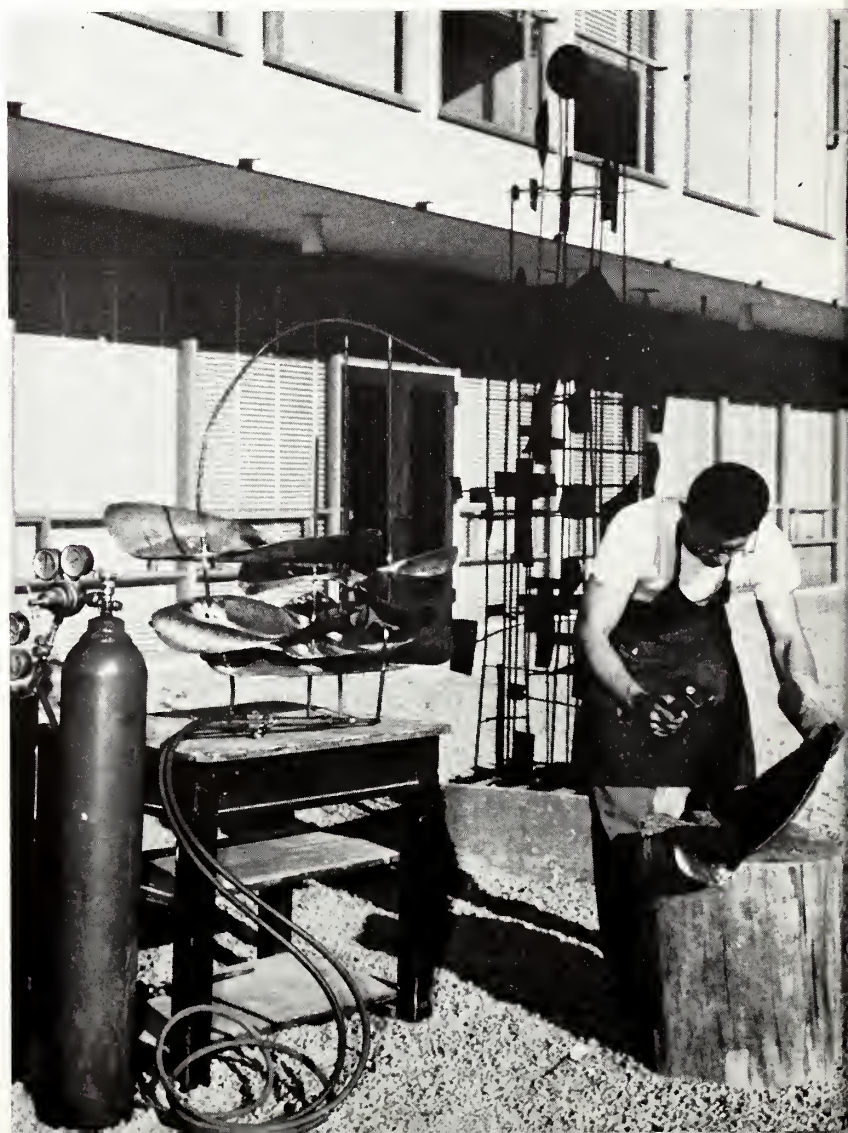

F. Louis Hoover, Ed.D.
Head of the Department of Art

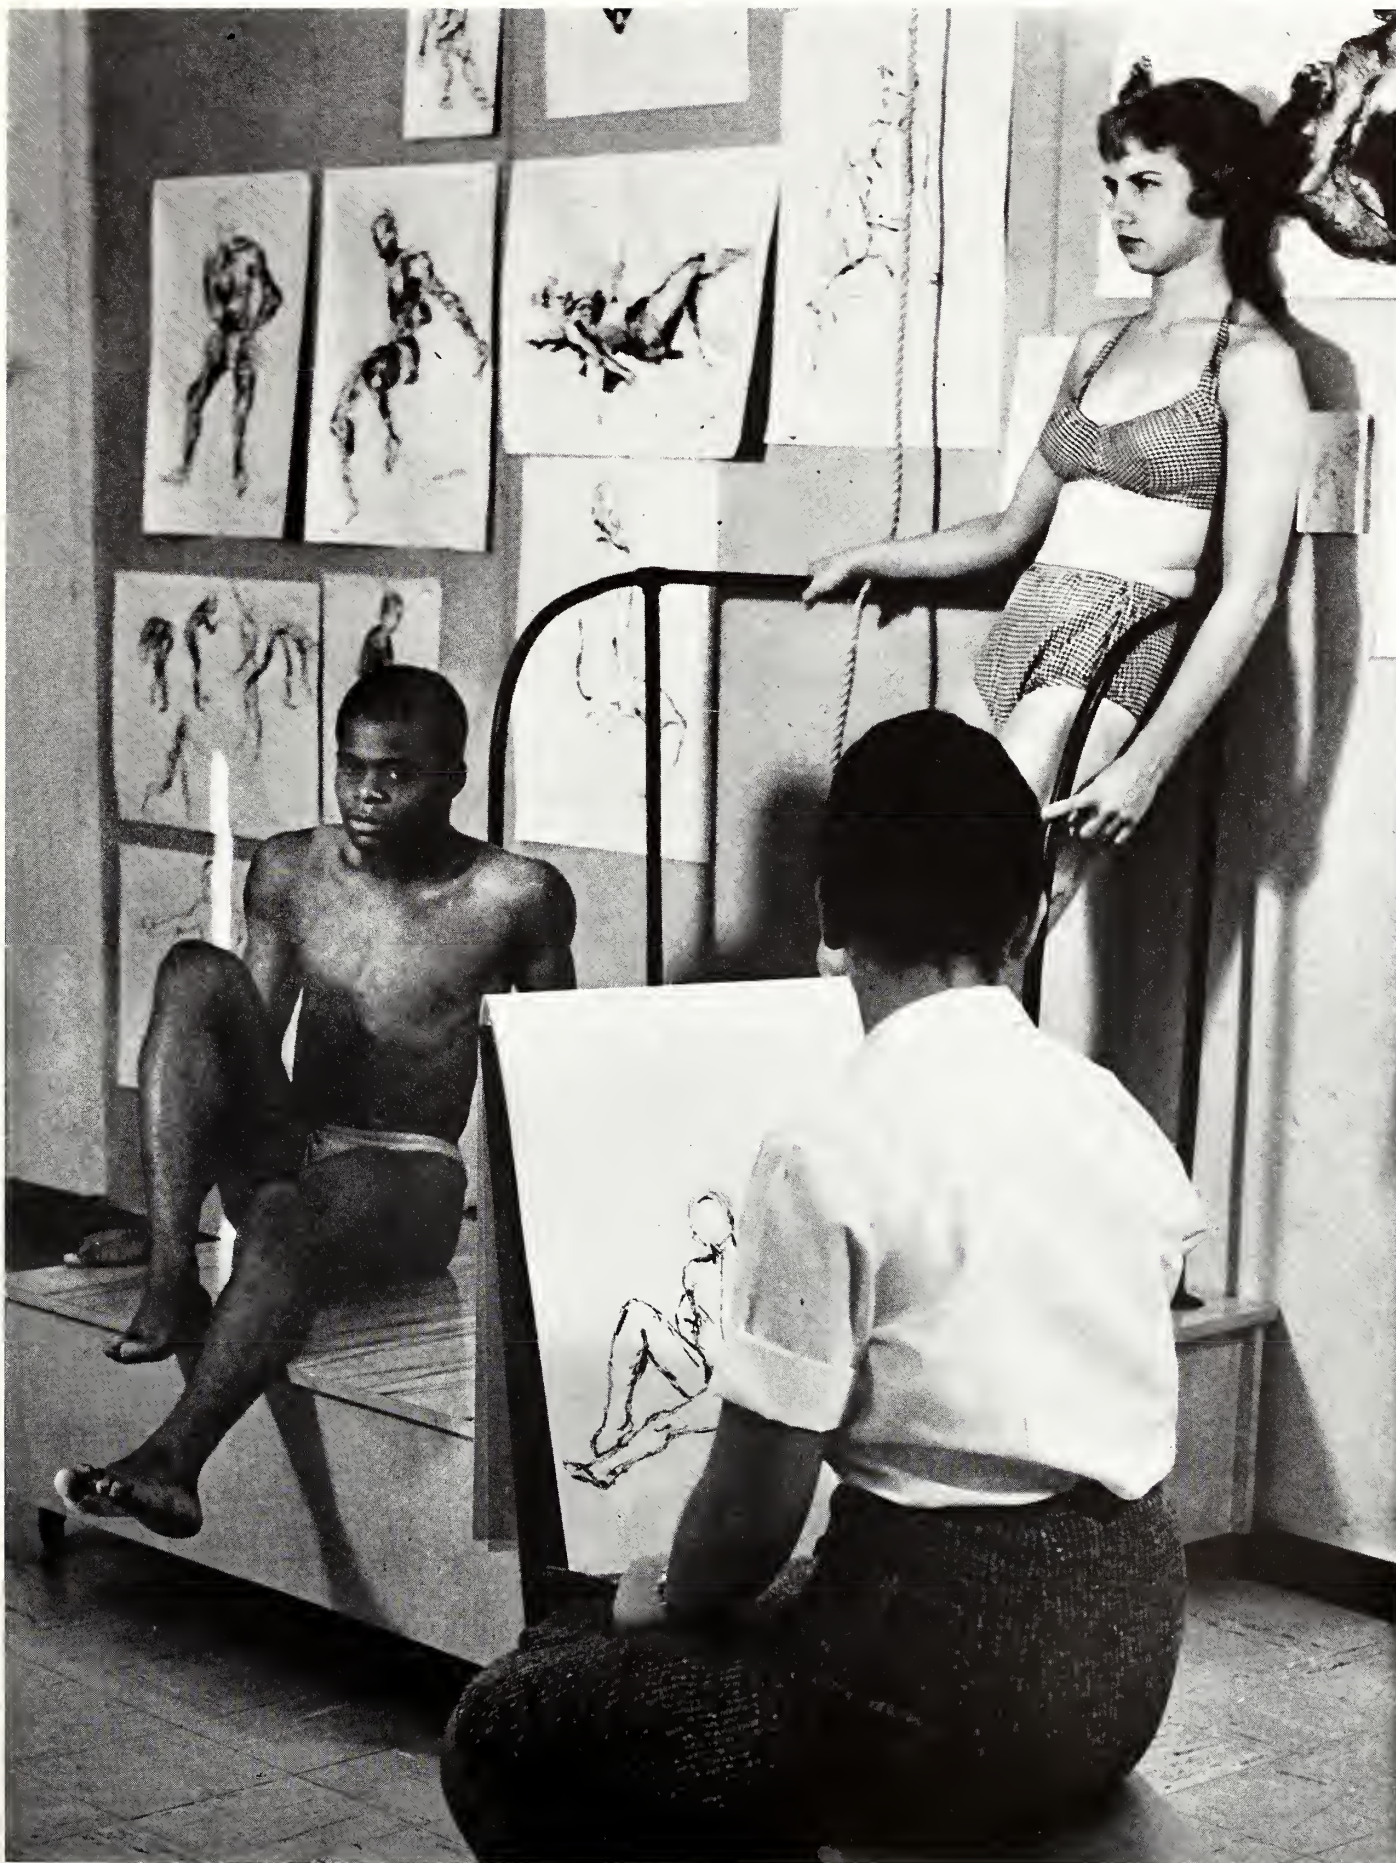

ART DEPARTMENT

Beauty of Creation

The artist is a scribe recording the magnificence of an ever-changing nature. Transposing images into a language of his own, he adds an original meaning. Thus, creative communication is the objective of the art department. Courses in still-life drawing, experimental painting, and perspective explain the terms of this figurative language to the student and offer a basis for freedom in thought and interpretation. Working in modern, well-equipped studios, the future teacher soon realizes not only the task of creativity, but also the preciseness with which he must understand art's expression. By viewing exhibitions which the department brings to our campus and by utilizing the fundamentals and history of art, the student prepares to impart his aesthetic knowledge upon the inexperienced.

A welding torch simulates a chisel in the hands of an artist. It softens the crudeness of raw steel into an intricate and abstract design, capturing the beauty of expression.

Through the eyes and mind of an artist, accurate form and dimension express themselves in a reproduction of God's creation.

Living and dead meet in this intricate process of realistic learning—the student's individual ability and knowledge will determine a successful dissection.

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES

Search of Man

What is life? Since his origin, man has answered innumerable questions posed by the complex problems which nature unceasingly presents. With an insatiable curiosity, he studied the environmental wonders: plants, animals, and their components—the vast world of microscopic organisms. Yet, the puzzle remains—the secret spark which changes matter to life. As long as there is a race of men to ask and to investigate, this search for the unknown will continue.

In our Department of Biological Sciences the young researchist trains, becoming keener in perception, surer in reason, and more adept in evaluation. Patience during these hours of learning is often tried, but with courses offering marine excursions to the West Indies and study through the master's level, a student soon realizes the reward of his efforts.

R. Omar Rilett, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of
Biological Sciences

Collaborating on the problems posed by a long work sheet, students add to their understanding of number symbolism.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

Mastery of Theory

Lewis Toll, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of Business Education

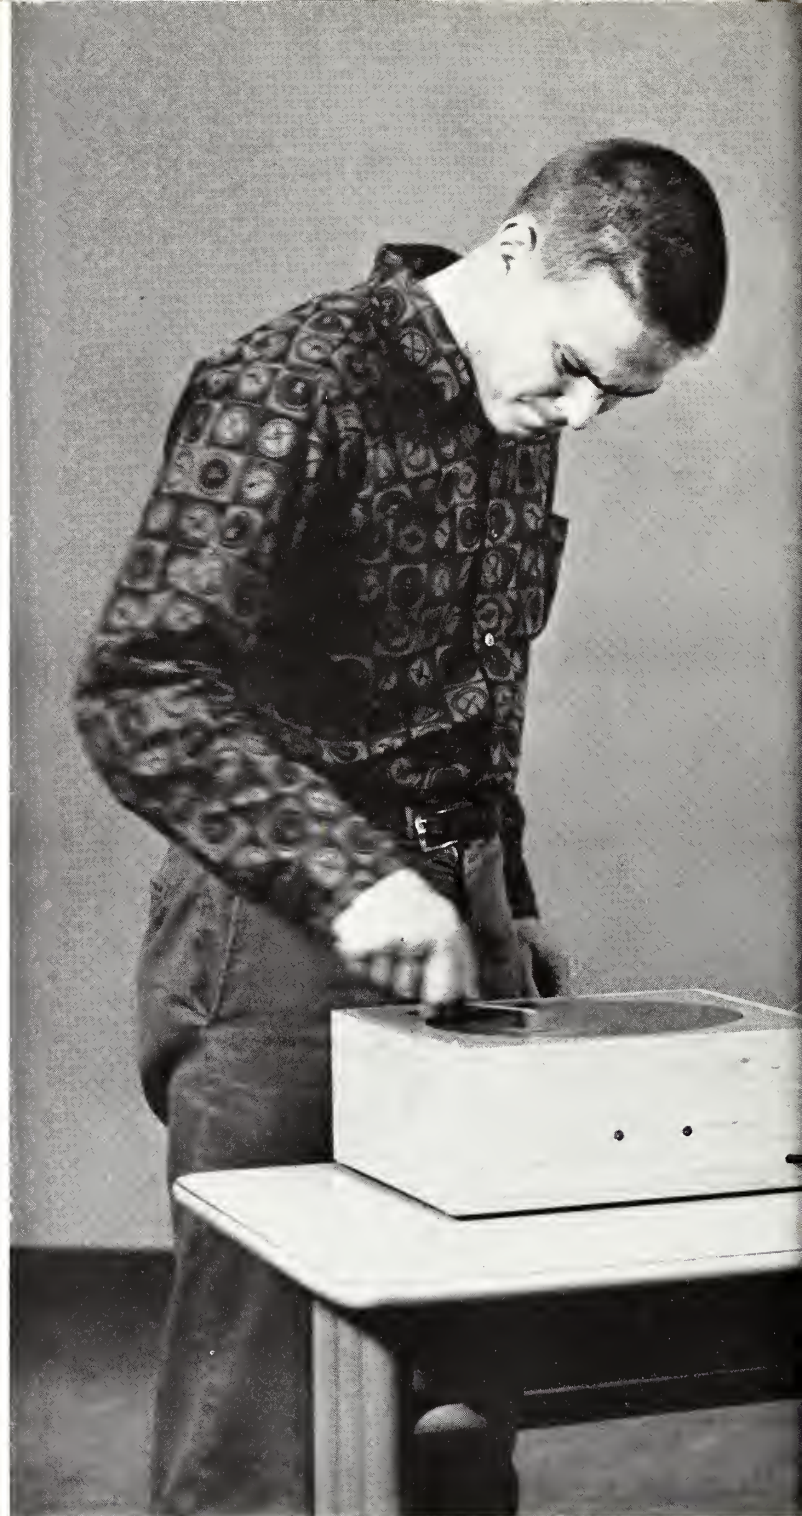

Busy fingers speed over black keys, a bell rings, and the swift hand movement brings a carriage back into place. Too often people visualize the typist only in an office setting. Yet, how did many of these typists learn their skills? The answer . . . through business teachers—a product of our Business Education Department.

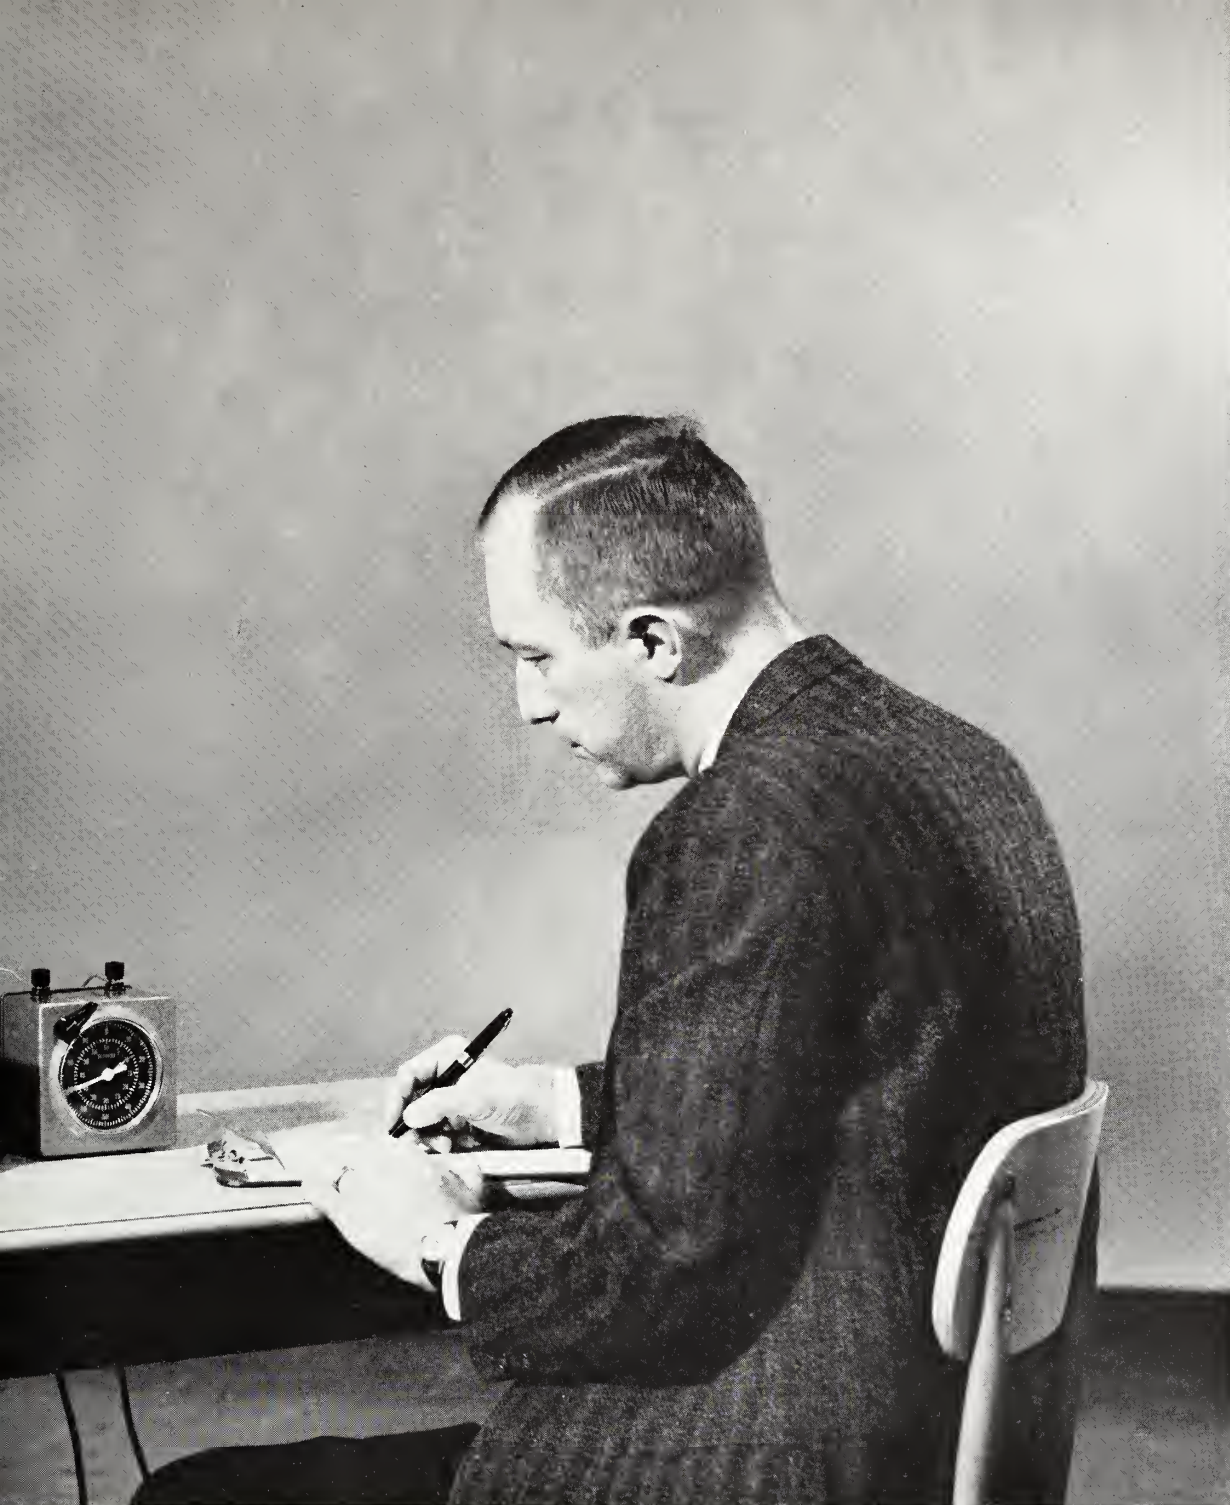

Encompassing law, mathematics, and accounting, a student's knowledge builds upon basic principles in business. By the time a major graduates, he is prepared to teach in such areas as banking, salesmanship, secretarial work, and insurance. The department looks forward to their future move into the proposed Practical Arts Building on the new West Campus, while students anticipate their coming role of teacher.

EDUCATION AND PSYCHOLOGY

Frank Philpot, Ed.D.
Head of the Department of Education and Psychology.

A stylus reveals many degrees of motor learning accuracy which depend upon our differences in ability level.

The Perception of Learning

"What the heart feels to be true, the mind grows to accept." Consideration of the learning process involves a study of human nature, for to educate the mind, one must gain sincere willingness of the heart.

Psychology comes first. It is the key to unlock the door to effective learning. It translates the intricate mental process into such understandable terms as rote learning, evaluative thinking, motivation, and the effects of environment upon behavior.

Methods come next. In our education courses students realize that, soon, they will be the guardians of a democratic nation and the examples for tomorrow's citizens. Greater cooperation in curriculum planning between student and teacher, in core groups and team teaching, and in accelerated classes will develop the mind and erase prejudice from the heart.

The Dawning of Knowledge

The eyes of a child see rain and he asks "why" . . . the hands of a child feel the droplets and he asks "what" . . . How often we adults forget the inquisitive nature of children, and yet, what a tremendous responsibility elementary teachers have when they help these young people grow as individuals, as members of a group, and as democratic citizens.

In the Elementary Education Department, a specially trained adviser aids entering freshmen in this field, and by working in actual grade school situations, the students are able to apply their new knowledge of teaching techniques. So delicate are the young minds of children that only through hard study, patience, and love for the work which they must do can the elementary education student become the good teacher needed for instructing our nation's youth.

Wider than his scope of knowledge, a child's fascination reflects itself in the everyday mirrors of life.

Helen Nance, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of Elementary Education

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

The Immortality of Thought

With vital assistance from a competent faculty, every English student utilizes previous knowledge in developing his speaking and writing skills. Our college level of composition and grammar facilitates him in disclosing ideas convincingly and correctly. Interesting, realistic characters enrich his studying, as do the artistic descriptions and thought-provoking statements of observant literary masters. A thorough background in English provides ease in expression and the wide range of knowledge which is necessary in all fields of education. The prospective English teacher will be responsible for passing on to his students the ideas, reasoning, and theories of long ago which advise and inspire us even today. Without doubt, a knowledge of the past becomes his foundation for a successful future in the teaching profession and in his role as an American citizen.

Accepting the written word without evaluation leads to memorization, not to understanding applicable ideas.

Victor Gimmestad, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of English

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

Frank Horvay, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of Foreign Languages

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Through language recordings students hear correct pronunciation.

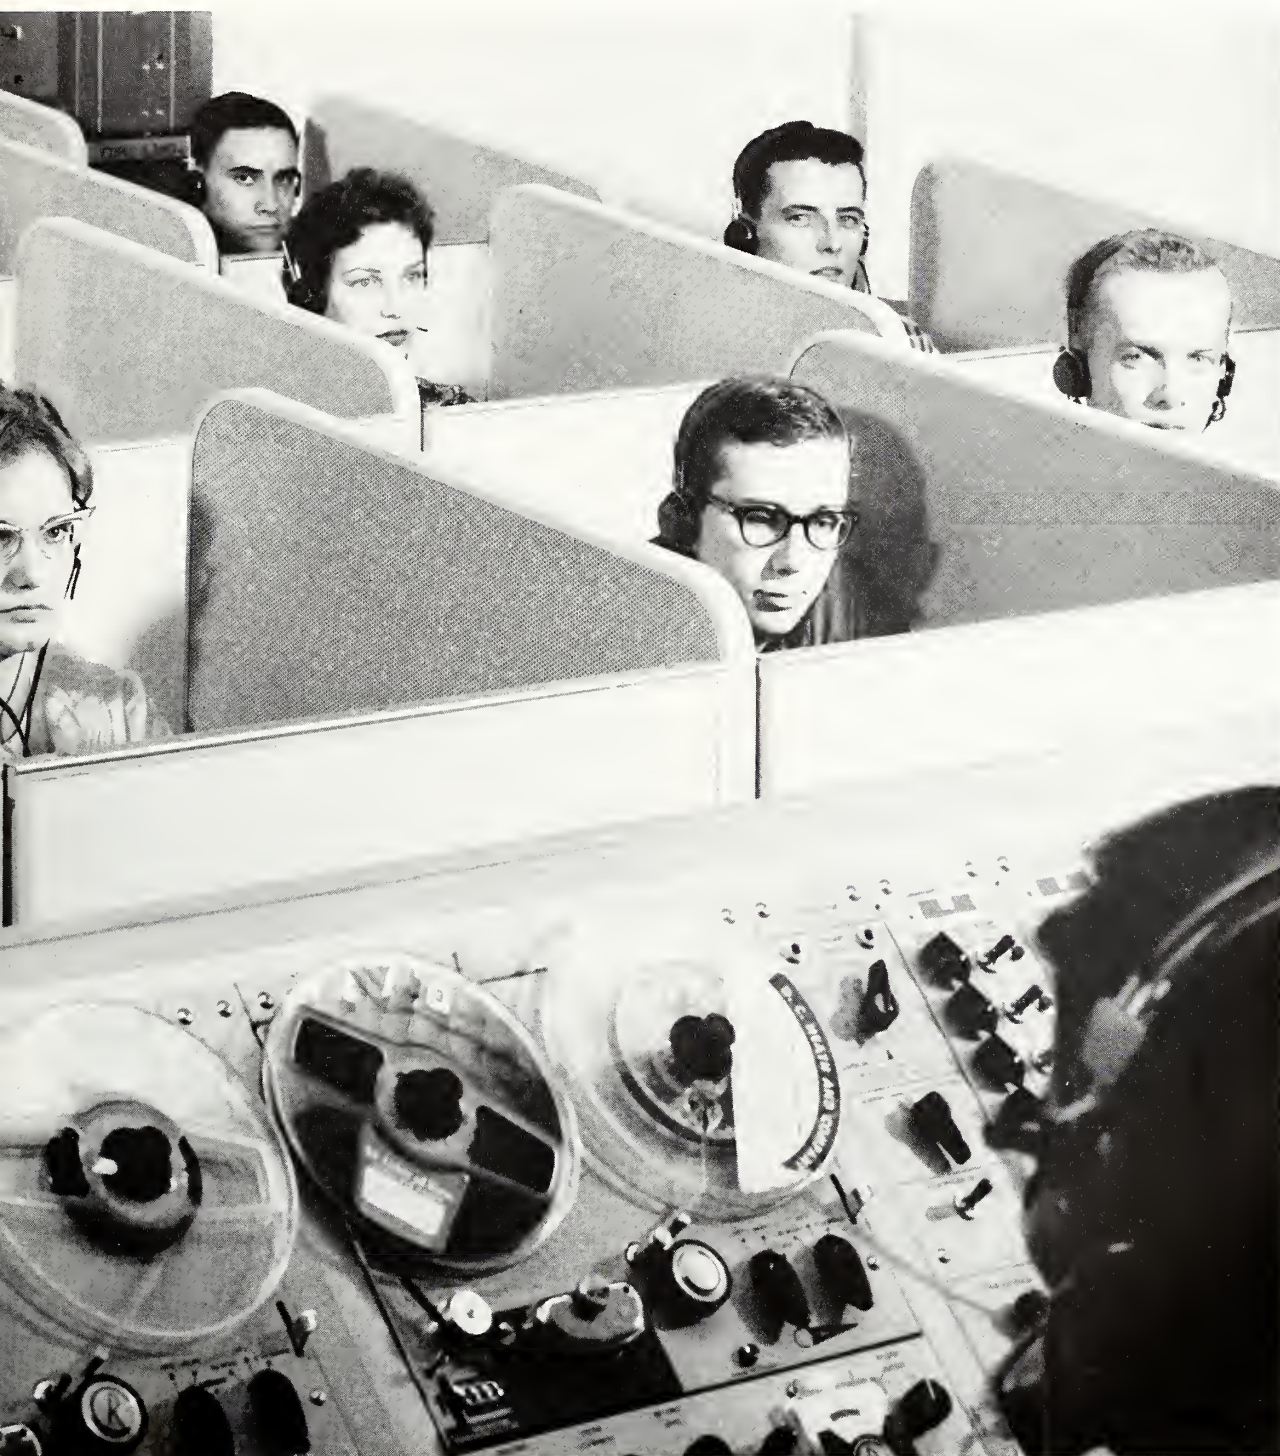

The Power of Words

Often Americans make a mistake when they refuse to learn another language, for is not speech a basic foundation in building understanding? Today, our perceptiveness may mean the solution of political, economic, and social problems. It is the acquisition of this knowledge which challenges foreign language students. Through intense study of speech, art, and customs in the cultures of Russia, Spain, France, and Germany, they attempt to meet this quest.

In modernistic laboratories, recently provided by the department, they utilize tape recording aids to improve their foreign speaking ability. In the classroom, they have the opportunity to gain grammatical efficiency. Thus, hope for building understanding strengthens as the students go to teach others, taking with them an active interest in this world of people.

From a quiver of the needle to a line on the graph, instruments of weather recording tell more than man can normally perceive.

Arthur Watterson, Ph D.
Head of the Department of Geography

GEOGRAPHY Of Lands and People

No longer can the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans loom as barriers between Eastern and Western civilizations; for with the technological advances, a more complete understanding of lands and peoples is not only desirable, but necessary. Aware of this trend, the Geography Department's highly professional staff offers students an inclusive program. Represented are courses in geology, conservation, climatology, and regional studies on continental or world-wide scope.

Thus a student gains the encompassing background necessary for teaching the modern classroom. Also helpful is the interdepartmental core program recently initiated in conjunction with the Social Science and Biology Departments. Here the emphasis on an interrelation of knowledge may aid the application of such a technique in the high school situation.

MEN'S HEALTH and PHYSICAL EDUCATION

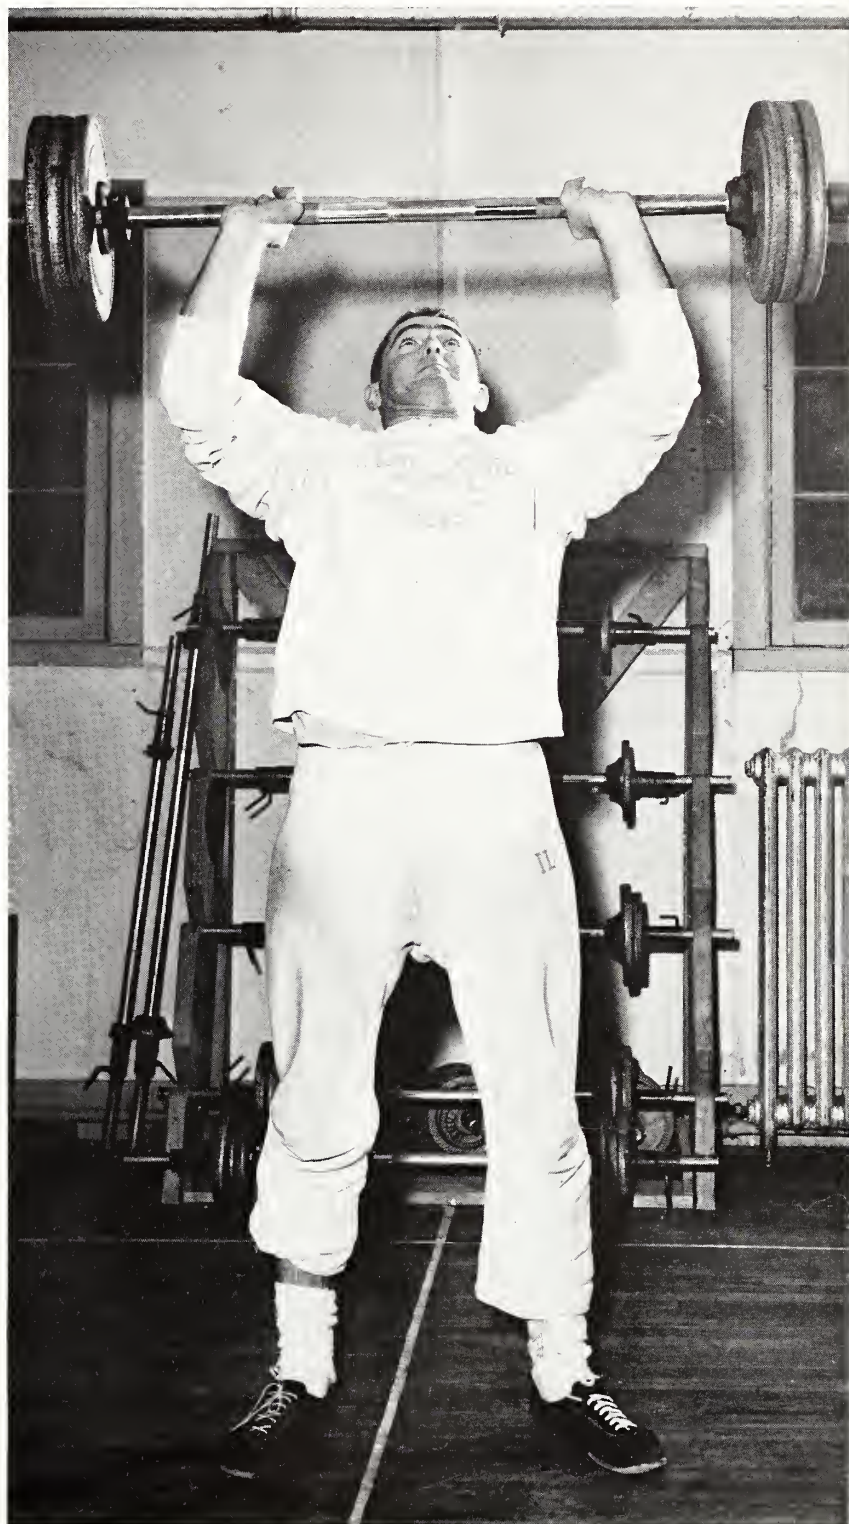

Stamina and Strength

Men's Health and Physical Education Department, an integral part of our University's program, adds to the general health and well-being of the individual—to his vigor, vitality, endurance, and poise. Through sports, games, aquatics, and rhythmic, the student has an opportunity to benefit physically, mentally and emotionally in general co-ordination and well-being.

Conflicts between daring and fear, determination and fatigue, victory and defeat, add colorful overtones and depths of feeling to life. Thus, physical education is not only education of the physical, it is education through the physical. The department offers important contributions to health, to wholesome attitudes toward life, and to a hygiene of living. All of these will become increasingly important to the student as he graduates and enters the teaching profession.

Burton O'Connor, Ed.D.
Head of the Department of Health and Physical Education

In an effort to maintain top physical condition, this PE student undergoes the rigors of weightlifting.

WOMEN'S HEALTH and PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Integration of Gestures

The mind, the soul, the body, each is a characteristic component of mortal beings; but is one more vital to the whole self than the other? Neglect of intellectual, spiritual, or physical character handicaps the development of a complete individual. Exemplifying this philosophy, the Women's Health and Physical Education Department acts as a guide for the student's achievement of bodily agility. To become a good physical education teacher, one must know the function and movement of all body muscles, much as a puppeteer must understand his marionette. The department thus combines a thorough study of anatomy and physiology, emphasizing basic approaches for teaching.

Warm smiles and congeniality create a pleasant atmosphere for the cooperative learning practiced at the Rambo House.

HOME ECONOMICS

Harmony of Living

Intricate fabric weaves, tempting aromas, and detailed meal planning, all comprise a student's role in the Home Economics Department. Key words to the student become poise and charm as she entertains for social purposes and participates in group discussions for intellectual advancement. Gaining knowledge from such courses as Textiles, Child Development and Guidance, and Demonstration Cookery, she then applies her newly learned techniques in the Rambo House of Home Management, a place of residence for nine weeks. Ultimately, her effectiveness as a teacher and future housewife will depend upon her firm understanding of America's well balanced home.

Florence Davis, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of Home Economics

Charles Porter, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of
Industrial Arts

Every gear and bearing in its place, each lever adjusted properly, keen eyes intent on precision metal working—these conditions result in a good finished product.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Knowledge of Industry

The mechanical wheels of our nation's economy will continue to turn at a progressive pace so long as man supplies the fuel of ingenuity and skill. The Industrial Arts Department prepares future teachers to assist our nation's youth in preparing themselves to fill those places in life that are best for them and best for society.

Under Dr. Porter, the new department head, many changes are being undertaken in course presentation and content. When the department shifts its residency to the new building soon to be constructed, even more credit will have to be given to the fine electrical and metal working shop. Since most of the regional and statewide meetings are held at this school, our Department is termed a hub of State University activity.

Never is a child too young to investigate the knowledge and wonders of books.

LIBRARY SCIENCE

Literature Organized for Learning

Robert Hertel, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of Library Science

Expanding ideas on many subjects, books surround us as products of written communication from early times to modern man. Our Library Science Department opens the door for seeking out, obtaining, and using all of the learning and teaching resources found in a wealth of information at Milner Library.

By analyzing various floor-plans, majors in the field realize the intricacy in efficient management. They study rare books, manuscripts, and the history of processing and cataloging. Through facilities such as the reading room, the Carnegie collection of recorded music, and open stacks, all university students discover to their lasting pleasure this ancient truism: "Books are the quietest and most constant of friends . . ."

Giving special attention and explanations not found in a textbook, a teacher perceives and corrects the misunderstanding of a student.

Through Mathematics ... A Better World

What makes us so different from the man of 2,000 years ago? Today, man finds that mathematics applied to almost every other field of knowledge has made possible the development of civilization from the simple to the complex. While elementary formulae of slope, gravity, and force were used to advance primitive societies, today highly complex formulae of thrust and propulsion are necessary to launch rockets and explore vast space. Fundamentals learned yesterday no longer suffice to answer today's problems in understanding a physical universe. Our Mathematics Department designs its curriculum to produce capable teachers, possessing the ability to advance man's comprehension of this important key to progress.

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

Clyde McCormick, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of Mathematics

The concepts of calculus are mastered by hours of study.

MUSIC... A Harmony in Sound

Each day the white acoustical tile of Centennial's practice rooms reflects the sounds of learning—misplaced notes transform into talented renditions of compositions by the old masters. To every student who practices singing or plays an instrument, music signifies an attainment only for the patient—a process of understanding written symbols and translating them into sounds—the art of correct and pleasing interpretation belonging only to the skilled.

Students of the Music Department vocalize in almost every key of the scale and become familiar with the techniques of playing each instrument. Principles of stage performance, orchestra and choral direction, and the history of music's most significant works—all comprise the background necessary for passing on this wealth of meaning and emotion in sound.

Rich-tones of the organ swell in the walls of Capen Auditorium.

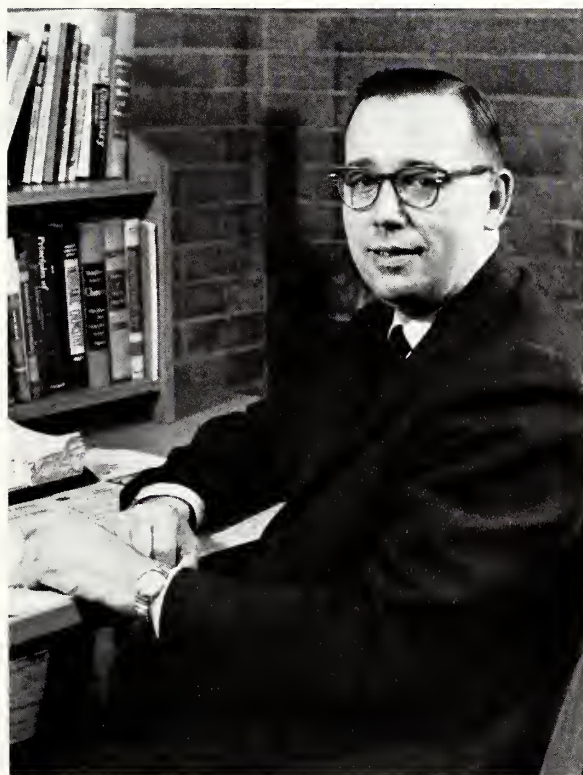

Howard Rye, Ed.D.
Head of the Department of Music

With chemicals and heat, students utilize initiative as they discover answers to questions of science.

Bernard Ryder, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of Physical Science

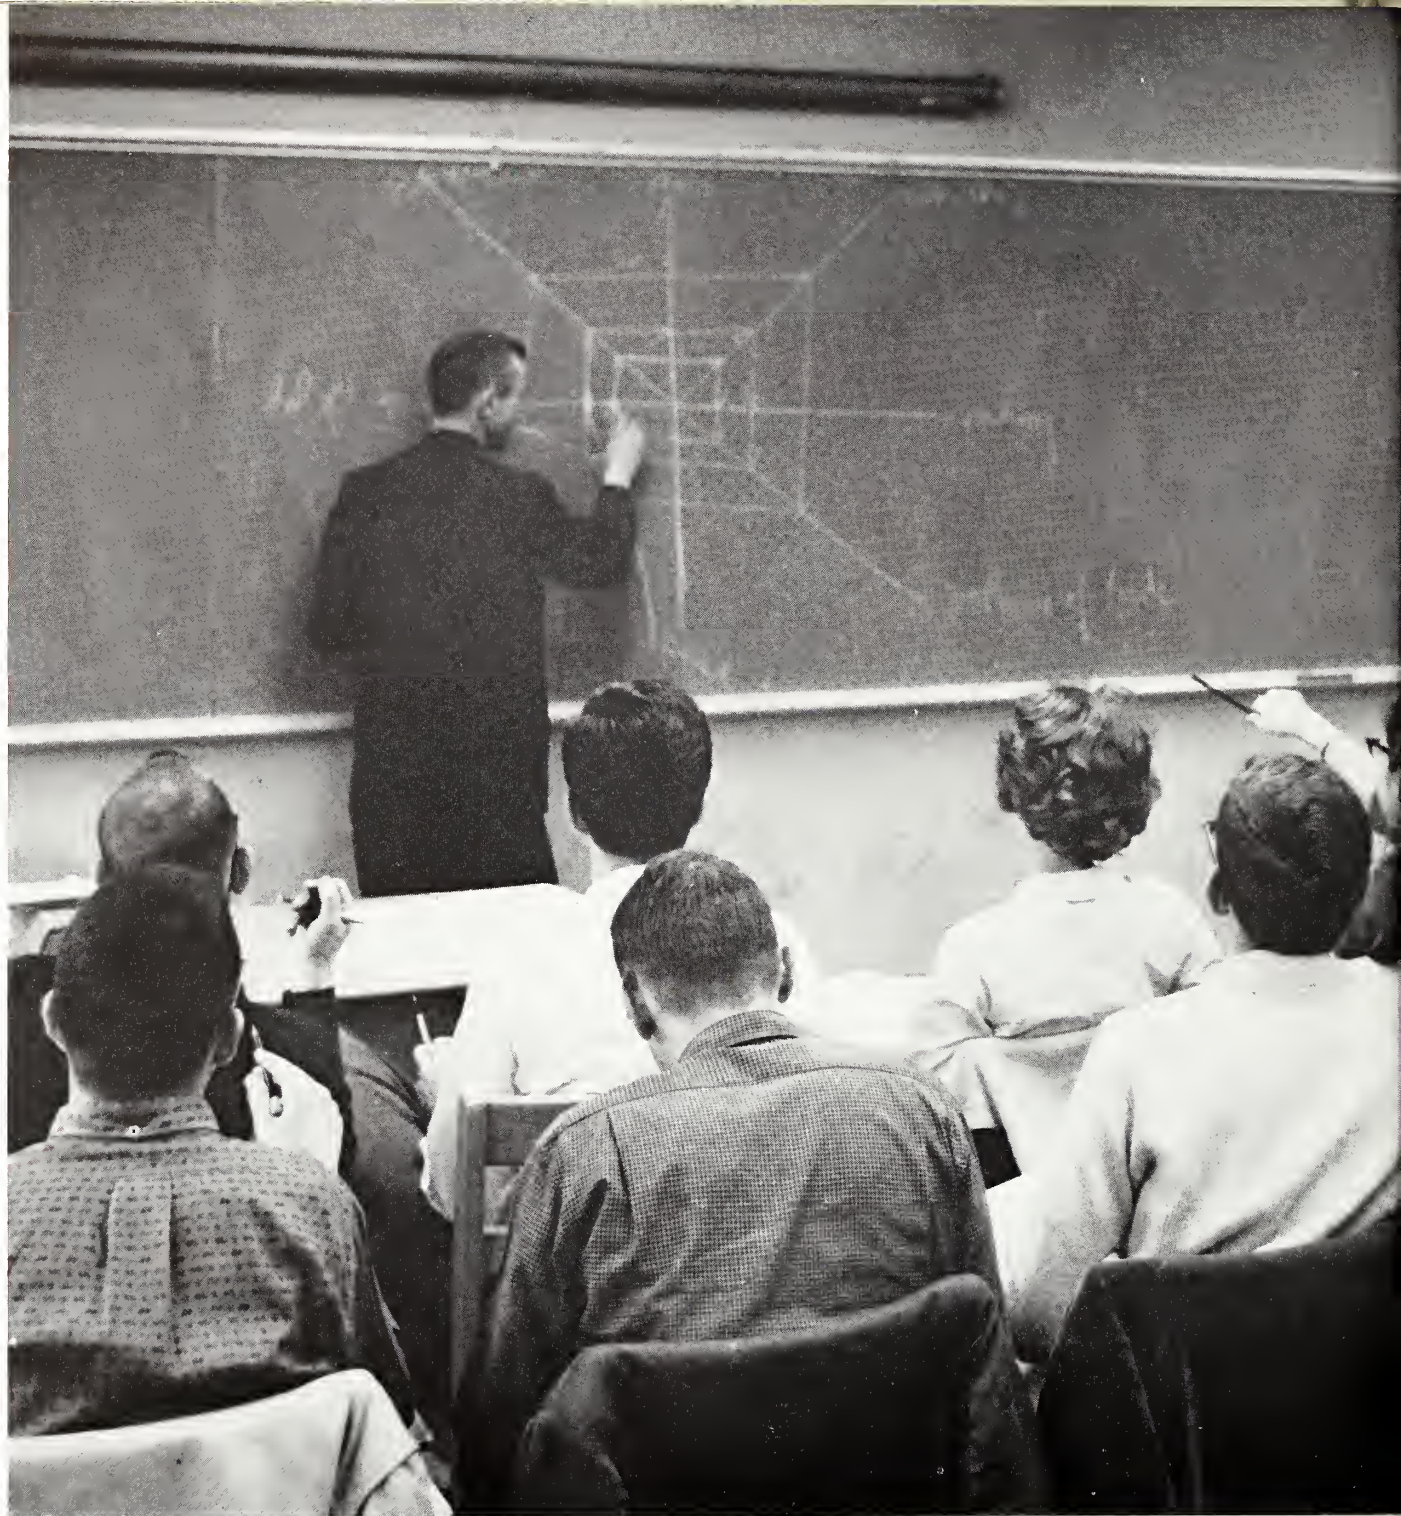

PHYSICAL SCIENCE

A Dauntless Task

Persistently a question nips at the heels of American Education. "And who do you think is ahead in the world's science race? The United States or Russia?" So far, satellites have placed men, dogs, and mice higher into space than anyone ever dreamed possible. In weather predictions, we now have the data-recording balloons traveling high into the stratosphere. And, in the not-to-distant future, telephones, separated by thousands of miles, will carry impulses incorporating a second dimension in communication—visual.

The quality of these innovations depends greatly upon an efficient training of students and teachers. As a result, our Physical Science Department offers a well-rounded curriculum in physics and chemistry; and by examining latest discoveries, then equips students with a good command of the subject matter.

Through Understanding . . . Lessening of Prejudice

In an age of turmoil, cooperation of nationalities and races becomes imperative to a peaceful and progressive existence. The Social Science Department strives to present an insight into the workings of today's cultures and to replace facts for prejudices through careful training.

The psychology of human behavior and its development provide discussion for such courses as sociology and anthropology. The progressing ideas of economics and political science reveal man's effect upon his environment. A student begins to understand the problem of friction from simple to international relations and to build a method of securing their solution.

Research in efficient teaching and learning processes allows the department to enlarge its staff and to introduce larger classroom enrollment; consequently, students are offered a wider classroom experience.

Diagramming a complex economic principle brings eager contributions, as each student brings forth pertinent knowledge.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Benjamin Keeley, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of Social Science

Unknown to many people, the student majoring in the teaching of the blind prepares a book in braille.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

Climb a rugged mountain, search a dark room, listen for sound in a vacuum . . . to normal children these represent hard tasks, to the exceptional youth they simulate the reality of the world in which he lives.

All human life is worth something; but for one who deviates from the normal, worth may be more difficult to attain. And thus, the special education teacher finds it necessary to emphasize a child's potential rather than his disability. Through visual aids and in-service training, up-to-date methods are introduced, while research in medicine, psychology, and sociology improve technical learning. Always, one has to realize that disregard of the physically or mentally exceptional child stifles his possible contributions and insures dependence upon society rather than independence as an integral member.

Harold Phelps, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of Special Education

Aiding the Exceptional Child

Located in the Fairchild Building, this special therapy room is the site of hours of exercise for physically afflicted children.

SPEECH DEPARTMENT

Charles White, Ph.D.
Head of the Department of Speech

With our new radio studio, ISNU enjoys closed-circuit broadcasts.

Impact of the Spoken Word

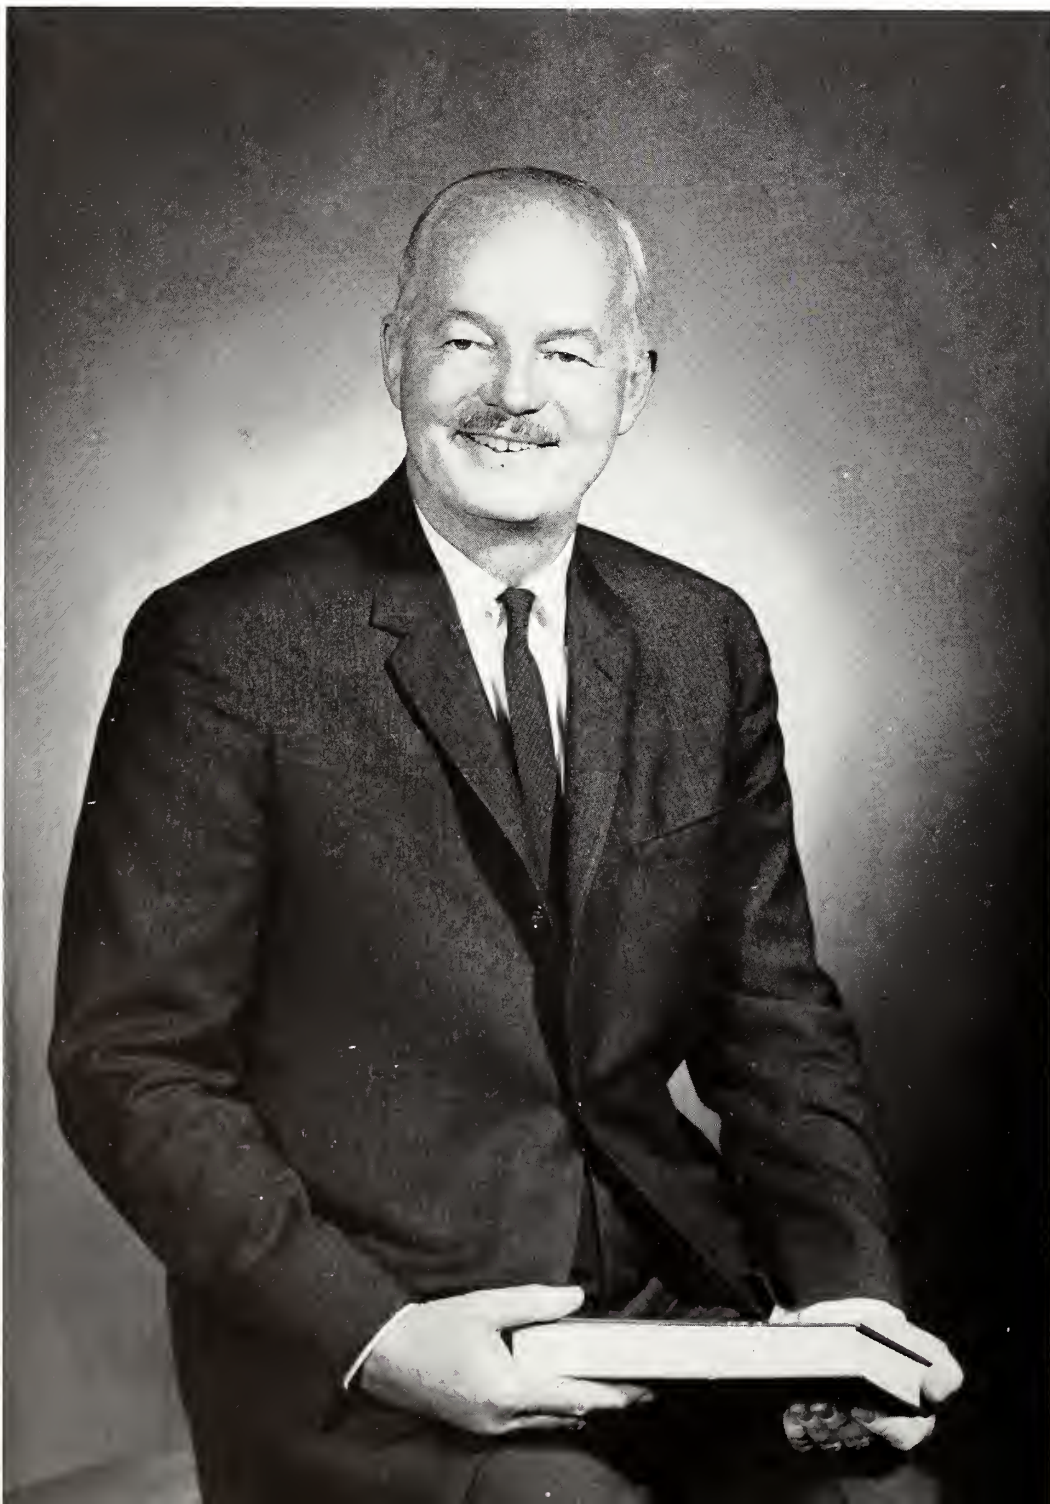

Thought, although superior in quality, lies dormant in the mind of an inarticulate person, but through teaching the fluent expression of that thought, our Speech Department realizes a primary goal. Assuredly, this training will aid the student in his future role as a teacher and as a leading citizen.

In the realm of applied arts, however, this department does not end its influence. When considered as a science, for example, speech becomes the concentrated emphasis upon audiology and impediment correction. And, when taught by a qualified staff, utilizing the new laboratory theater, speech is a fine art of drama and oral interpretation. In all of these phases a student must display his knowledge and skill in oratory.

As you read through this copy of the INDEX, I am sure you will be challenged by the idea it develops—the challenge of the satellite age, the challenge of education in this one world of ours, the challenge of teacher education and of its importance. This INDEX will give you an excellent picture of this University with its personnel, its facilities, and its activities, and will well demonstrate the manner in which we are meeting our goals and responsibilities in these days of challenge.

STUDENT LIFE

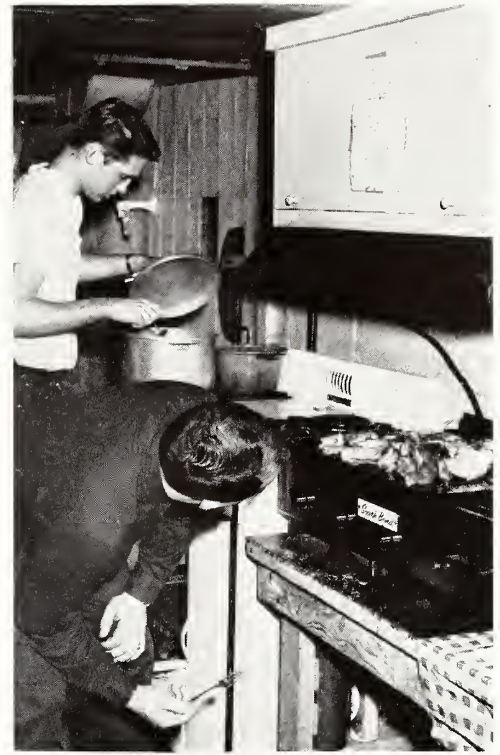

Student Life . . .

"Holy cow, it's five to 8:00. C'mon roommate, hit the deck. We can't miss this class again!"

Now, Mother no longer rides herd on her children, for when a student begins college, the three calls to breakfast or the tantalizing bribery of homecooked bacon and eggs are gone forever. In their place lies a new way of life, an independence which cries for rule, a challenge which must be met.

It's not easy the first day you meet your new roommate. Will you get along together? What will he be like? Others in the dorm rush busily through the halls . . . mounds of clothes heap over Father's arms . . . Mother follows with a suitcase. How will you get to know all of your hall mates? How should you act?

...from Morning to Noon

... from Laundry and Roomcheck

Orientation Week begins and the first taste of rough sledding teases you along the road of independence. No longer does a school call you boy and girl . . . you are man and woman. Time passes, alarm clocks are set, scraps of notebooks fill with the jotted messages of attempted schedule. Can you keep to them? You try . . . Mealtime rolls around. Students hustle to cafeterias or march over to the grocery store hoping that their shopping lists provide the food for hungry stomachs. Mother is not there to prepare the wonderful meals you remember. Now it's up to you.

Nights come . . . 1 a.m. and homework's still not done . . . 3 a.m., must get to bed, have an 8 o'clock tomorrow. Then with Saturday dawns the weekend. You praise its arrival, but, oh, how you hate the room-check which also tags along. The girls' dorm bustles to the jangle of keys as the roomchecker approaches. "Where's the mop?" "Hey, Jane, where's the dust cloth?" "What do you mean my mirror's got dust on it? So does yours!" Dust the bolsters, straighten the closets, make the bed . . . remember that no wrinkles are allowed . . . mop the floor, arrange the books. . .

... to the fun of Dating

... from Leisure to Religious Life

Washday comes. "Boy, I wonder what Mom did to keep my clothes so white?" "Holy mackerel, I burned a hole right through my best white shirt!" "How do I get all of these clothes done? Fred will be here in less than fifteen minutes, and I'll be late again!"

The dates begin . . . a stroll down the walk hand in hand . . . a long wait in line at the movies . . . a hush in the night at Lake Bloomington. No parents to set the hour, yet you know the rules. You are the only one who can follow them, you are on your own. Rush here, rush there. Your days are filled with living, spiced with the flavor of homework and activities.

Sundays come and go. Mom and Dad had worked to make you go to church, but this time the decision is yours. And you go . . . not because it is the thing to do, but because, for some strange reason, you yearn for spiritual guidance, the care of a greater Being.

The weeks pass on and faces become familiar. A game of cards, a smoke in the lounge, the sound of footsteps on the walk . . . his beside hers as they talk in the night . . . Images of college life . . . so ordinary, so common to those who have passed through the gates of experience . . . so challenging, so frightening to the student when he first leaves home.

In Words and Pictures . . . An Expression of One Year

Papers shuffling, telephones ringing, people talking—sounds of work echo across a small office, beat out a rhythm of creativity. We write to the music of typewriters as their tone-sharp sounds pierce the concentrating mind and layout pictures amongst a labyrinth of scales, rulers, paste, and scissors.

To our Index staff, the yearbook is a dream becoming reality, a thought becoming expression, a job capturing one year of campus life. Not many realize the work involved as they watch our photographers racing down a field to picture a football play in motion, or spending many anxious moments taking club and department shots. No definite hours can be estimated for writing copy, cropping pictures, estimating type size, determining bleeds. Sometimes it takes all day, sometimes all night. But, finally the job is done, and when our book is presented to the student body, we can only hope for their appreciation and satisfaction.

THE VIDETTE

Sunday is proofreading; Monday, final copy goes to printer; Tuesday, the school newspaper is distributed . . . and so reads the work schedule of our Vidette staff. As they work on their bi-weekly paper, this routine becomes double work for reporters, editors, and photographers. All indicating the efficient, effective organization of behind-the-scenes duties. Initiating a fresh approach to the organizational problem this year, editors now follow a policy of shared staff responsibility. In terms of personnel this innovation required an increased number of page editorships, effecting a greater distribution of administrative experience. Proceeding upon the criteria that the potential leaders of a democracy must necessarily be enlightened world citizens, the Vidette also added a World News Brief column to the usual coverage of campus events. Thus, the spirit of dedication and determination permeates the Vidette office, warranting due respect for the labors which make the paper a reality each Tuesday and Thursday and which keep everyone well-informed.

BIG 4

Seasons of Music

With the sound of steel tapping upon the old McCormick stairway, hundreds crowd into a dimly-lit room. Familiar faces merge with the new—some have been here many times; for others it is an initial experience. The big-name band stands before them—one stroke of the baton and spectators now participate—a disorganized throng accepts the beat, one language interpreted differently, yet to all—rhythm in music.

Changing seasons brought a variety in entertainment. Golden autumn provided a crisp atmosphere for Skitch Henderson's orchestra. Amiable Richard Maltby's progressive style, accompanied by drummer George Southgate, our fellow-student, added warmth to chilly November. And the following March echoed in the sophisticated tones of Les Elgart.

Another year drew to a close—a year long to be remembered for the pleasurable entertainment of listening and dancing—our thanks to Big 4.

Richard Maltby records a memory and acquires lasting friends.

SWEETHEART BALL

Music and Dance in Valentine Mood

The fragrance of fresh flowers, the delicacy of lace and paper hearts, and the warm glow cast by the dimmed lights set the atmosphere for an unforgettable evening, the night of the Sweetheart Ball, sponsored by the University Union Board. The Ballroom echoed with the enchanting music of the Modernaires as they captured the hearts of couples whirling to their music. For only one breath-taking moment did the music stop, as students witnessed the crowning of Pat Zittle, queen of the 1962 Sweetheart Ball. Climaxing the event, the Queen and her court led the coronation dance. As the evening came to a close, dancers paused for a time of reminiscence and anticipation of an equally enjoyable evening when they would attend the dance next year.

Bob Milnes begins the first dance with Queen Pat Zittle with music prevailing.

A throng surrounds the Chad Mitchell Trio indicating total appreciation on the part of the audience.

From colorful Broadway musicals to the spirited popular singer; students, faculty, and members of surrounding communities thronged to experience a panoramic variety of stage presentations.

Michael McLaimmoir's dramatization and commentary on Oscar Wilde's life and works, the old-fashioned musical "Pirates of Penzance," and publisher-author Bennett Cerf's enlightening comments on the world situation—these delighted an intellectual audience.

Unique, foreign sounds and songs of Africa's Miriam Makeba, accompanied by the dynamic Chad Mitchell Trio were a blend of voices in unusual harmony. Carol Channing's hilarious excerpt from "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and Roger Williams, whose remarkable talent controls the mental pictures and changing moods of his audience—these captivated the young at heart.

Bennett Cerf enjoys conversation with the audience after the show.

JESTERS ... The Stage Call for Talent

Under multicolored caps of felt and cloth, Jester pledges brought to our campus an air of court days long past. One of the largest initiations in its history served to keep the group in the minds of all students, especially those interested in dramatics.

Serving to acquaint active members with the principles of theatrical art, the organization, guided by Dr. Eric Bickley, journeyed to Chicago to view six matinee and evening stage performances. Direction, lighting, backdrops, sound-effects, and the vital element of acting contributed to this vicarious experience and helped to formulate a richer philosophy for every student, the professional viewpoint which transforms amateur to actor.

Next year, members will be able to display the ideas which they have gained and the techniques which they have learned in a joint effort with the Theta Alpha Phi fraternity—the production of a play written, produced, and staged solely by them.

Dick Mishler, Jac McAnelly, and Joyce McCormick work on "Love's Labour's Lost."

Diana Fritzsche, Jim Evans, Leon Lochbaum, and Joan Alongi receive appraisal from their fellow cast members and the audience.

Gypsy-girl Joan Alongi accurately describes her mother's wedding saying, "And I should know, because I was there!"

LOWELL MASON-MENC Of Reverie and Resonance

Acquainting an appreciative audience with the mythical village of "Brigadoon" and its inhabitants were the Lowell Masons in their annual musical. Initiated during the first weeks of the school year, plans for this production were entirely directed by student leadership from the music department. Although "Brigadoon" was paramount in the club's program, other activities to further music education in the public schools were also included. Members discussed with speakers Mrs. Harold Brown and Mr. Byron Roderick the current challenges and opportunities in vocal and instrumental instruction. Evidence of the vital role this organization plays in promoting student interest is its sponsorship of exchanges with Illinois Wesleyan and the active participation of its members in conventions on both the state and national level.

BLACKFRIARS... Energetic Brothers

"The best spring show in our history" was the enthusiastic byword of the Blackfriars as pledges went through their strenuous nine-week initiation period. However, this show was not the Friars' only interest.

During Christmas they donated food to several orphanages; for the most academically outstanding member they awarded a scholarship; and at the year's end they sponsored a festive dinner-dance.

ORCHESIS... Images Abstracted in Dance

Imperative to the serious mood of dance is the beauty relating physical form and grace to the expression of a mental image. Formulating ideas into basic movements, Orchesis members learn first the technique stage of modern dance. Combining these elements into the final composition completes the transition of the student to the artist.

A college symposium at the State University of Iowa offered our Orchesis an opportunity to exhibit their talents while a variety of presentations and conferences added to their past knowledge and experience.

Presenting workshops in Chenoa, Decatur, Galva, and Kewanee, Illinois, the group related their skill and helped to develop an appreciation for modern dance amongst high school students.

Varied costume shades, downcast expressions, and a length of cord reveal images of depression.

GAMMA PHI

Since September the hard-working troupe of Gamma Phi tested and improved their strength, coordination, and perseverance. As the time of the circus drew near, every member worked even more feverishly on his act, continually striving for the ease of perfection. Finally, opening night arrived. The anticipation of the audience in McCormick Gym matched that of the performers waiting to go on. The ringmaster's shrill whistle, a rousing fanfare, and the show began! Among the many breath-taking acts which highlighted the circus were the revolving ladder, uneven parallel bars, trampoline, high trapeze, and tight wire. After three electrifying performances on campus, Gamma Phi took to the road, thrilling audiences in Clinton and Morton, Illinois.

Linda Girard performs on the webs.

A Magical Night Under the Big Top

The dexterity and agility of working on a ball, crossing the tightrope, and juggling adds to the audience excitement and entertainment.

Voices Raise in Jubilation

Music is a language of itself—its sensitive and intricate sounds express vividly the shades of emotion. Voices and sounds, brass and strings, alto and soprano carry to each listener's ears and mind a glimpse of a memory, a time or experience at its best revived in the lightness of an operetta or the melancholy of a ballad.

Outstanding in its quality of tone and harmony is the University Choir. Serving as the main core of the Messiah and opening the Religious Week program, the Choir gave deeper perspective to serious subjects. Additional programs included the Easter concert, "Mozart's Requiem," an oratorio challenging in its complexity, and a tour to Champaign-Urbana.

Affording an opportunity to all girls interested in vocalization is our Treble Choir. A Christmas Program introduced this group's part in campus entertainment as they joined with the Men's Glee Club.

Echoing Harmony from Campus to State

A two-day trip to the Chicago area culminated hours of practice and drill for the Women's Chorus. Open to the public were concerts in December and May.

Besides including graduate students from the University, the Men's Glee Club may also boast of membership representative of every department. Adding a musical flavor to campus conventions, the group sang for homecoming festivities, College Day, and various educational and civic organizations. Serving a dual purpose, Men's Glee Club took evening tours to high schools in Danville and Weldon, Illinois. They provided not only vocal entertainment but stimulated interest in supporting school music departments.

Selections ranging from classical to modern represented the musical fare of the Concert Band. Residents of Sterling and Mendota, Illinois, received the benefit of the Band's intensive practice in preparation for their tour, while University students enjoyed these efforts repeated in a February concert.

Observing a tedious schedule of eight concerts during the academic year, the Symphony Orchestra offered to our University students both orchestral and soloist interpretations. In the student rendition of the Lowell Mason production "Brigadoon," the Orchestra's sup-

Queen Bette Jane Irwin

A Story of Reunion

Homecoming, 1961—white angora mittens and red pleated skirts, "Here come the cheerleaders!"—a surging throng of shouting singers begins at Walker and flows into a single file stretching to McCormick Gym—runs faster, faster, across campus, through the Cage and back to the football field—the longest snake dance known in the history of our University.

An invigorating coolness settles over a late-fall evening. The bonfire seems warmer and brighter as Homecoming rallies to the cries of students, faculty, loyal alums . . . "Hail to Normal," "Beat the Salukies."

Morning dawns—freezing rain dampens the ground, stains paper-maché Redbirds, but never cools our exuberance . . . an endless stream of floats celebrating a win with "Our American Heritage". . . clowning Blackfriars in bermudas and trenchcoats—all climaxed by an afternoon's struggle . . . mud-caked players clash with Southern, experience disappointment, then defeat.

Evening approaches—B. J. Irwin leads her regal march through the ballroom and breathes lightly as the crown is placed upon her head. The Queen of Homecoming now commands her dance to begin.

FOOTBALL

Redhot ISNU Footballers Burn Foes

Finishing second in the highly regarded IIAC, the Illinois State footballers surprised many a foe as they chalked up a 4-2 conference mark. Only a narrow 12-7 loss to Western Illinois University in the final conference match separated the Birdies from a share of the loop crown with nationally ranked Southern Illinois University. The Redbird gridders finished their 1961 schedule with an overall 5-4 record. This grade is all the more impressive when one considers that of the four teams that defeated ISNU, two, Northern Michigan and Southern Illinois Universities, were ranked in the top ten of the nation's small college teams; and a third, Millikin University, won its conference crown.

If one were to give credit where credit is due, he would have to single out not a lone player, but the entire team. For this squad was one which thrived on team work. There was the fine broken-field running of speedster Ron Schieber and others such as Bert Popejoy and Bill Vance; the passing of Co-captain Keith Rieger; the pass receiving of Bill Monken and Jerry Essington; the fine blocking of Co-captain Dave Babcock, Dave Murphy, Al Bard, Larry Gassen, and Al Crandall; and last but certainly not least, the accurate punting of Bob Cardiff and Mike Pehan.

Schieber, who was voted as the "most valuable player" by his Redbird teammates, left little to be desired as the Danvers flash scored 42 points on seven touchdowns. Schieber was also the team's leading ground gainer with 577 net yards for a 4.3 yards per carry average. Popejoy, who is only a freshman, rolled up 424 net yards for a 4.2 yards per carry average and three touchdowns. Bill Vance carried for 186 net yards and a 4.8 yards per game average. Quarterback Keith Rieger threw for 540 total yards and five TD's. Rieger proved an able field general in rounding out his fourth year of varsity competition. Bill Vaught and Fritz Leighty added fuel to the ground attack as they compiled rushing averages of 3.0 and 2.4 yards respectively.

The crowning touch to a very successful gridiron season for the pigskinners was their convincing 16-6 victory over arch-rival Illinois Wesleyan University at McCormick Field in the season finale. The victory, which was the Birdies' 27th over a Wesleyan eleven in a series that dates back to 1887, was sweet revenge on a team that copped the 1960 tussle by a slim 7-6 margin.

Four Illinois State gridders, Monken, Schieber, Murphy, and Tom Mackiewicz were all named to the NAIA District 20 all-star team, while Coach Ed Struck was voted "coach of the year" by the twenty mentors in District 20 of the NAIA. Three Redbird stalwarts, Monken, Mackiewicz, and Babcock were honored with a berth on the IIAC all-star team; Tom Petit and Dick Zion received honorable mention on the list of conference likewise, honors.

The 1961 gridiron season saw full use made of the new McCormick Field lights as the Birdie footballers played all of the September and October home games, except the Homecoming contest, under the arcs.

JV FOOTBALL

ISNU's junior-varsity football team amassed a total of 120 points to their opponents 27, while running up a 5-1 campaign mark. Only an 18-6 loss to Northern Illinois University in the season finale marred the Birdies' 1961 slate. Among the reserves' five victories were two each over Eastern Illinois University's JVs and Western Illinois University's reserves. This fine JV mark, coupled with the varsity's fine record, gives evidence that winning pigskin teams will be the rule rather than the exception at ISNU in future years.

Standouts on this reserve squad were freshmen Mike

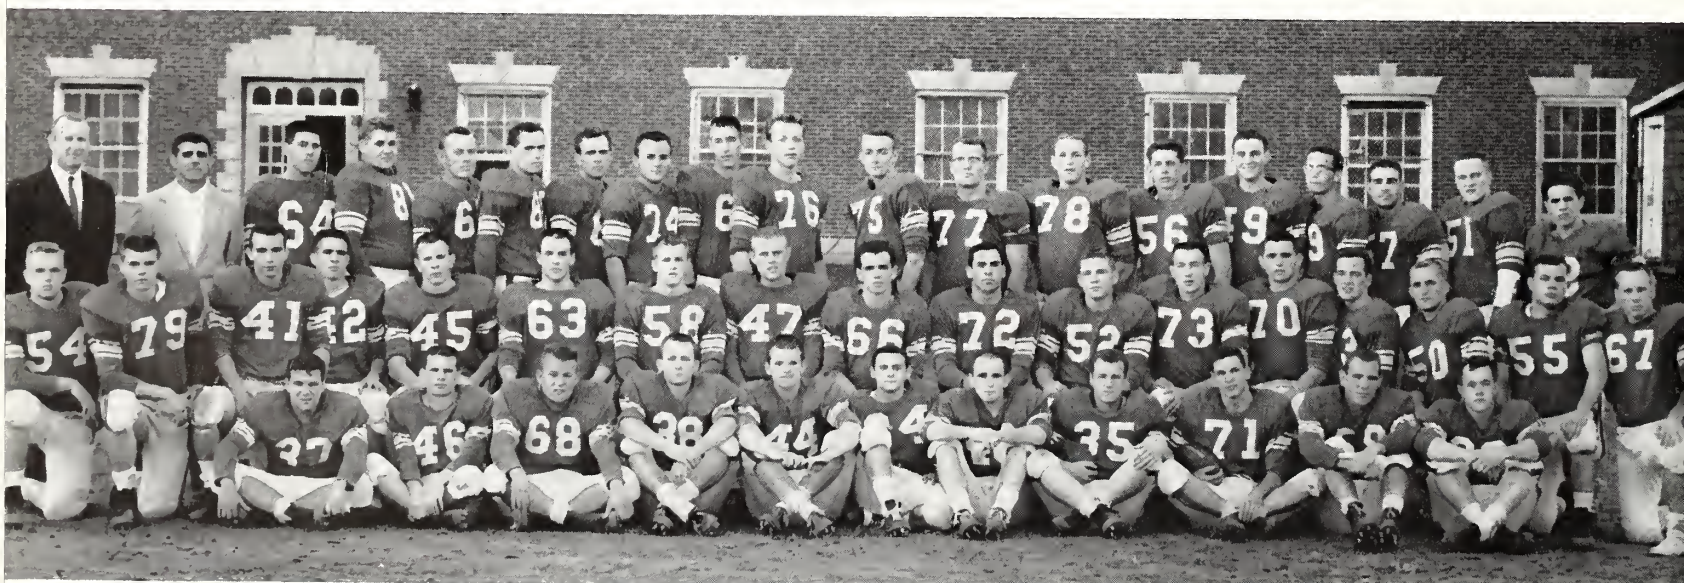

Klein, Al Hart, and Dan Alexander. Sophomores who showed promise included Phil Hopkins and Gar Rigoni.

Tension! . . .

Playing in what proved to be a well-balanced conference this season, the Illinois State Redbirds finished in a second-place tie with Western Illinois University in the seven team IIAC. ISNU and Western, who split their two-game series, finished behind nationally-ranked Southern Illinois University. By virtue of this runner-up position, the Birdies were invited to the Great Lakes Regional of the NCAA at Valparaiso, Indiana.

Only the absence of center John Swart from the final eight games prevented the hoopsters from finishing with an even better mark. Swart, whose eligibility ran out at the conclusion of the first semester, was the team's top scorer with an 18.5 points per game average. Swart led the conference in field goal percentage with a .539 mark and in free throw percentage with an .823 grade. Close behind Swart was junior Jim Ringel who led the team in total points scored with 349 campaign tallies for a 13.9 per game average.

Forward Wardell Vaughn showed tremendous improvement during the '61-'62 schedule as he wound up with a 12.9 points per game mark and 8.2 rebounds per contest. Edwardsville senior, Dale Haywood, who must be regarded as the hoopmen's top defensive player, concluded his varsity competition with an average of 9.2

points per outing. Senior Keith Rieger swished the nets to accumulate an 11.2 mark for the season.

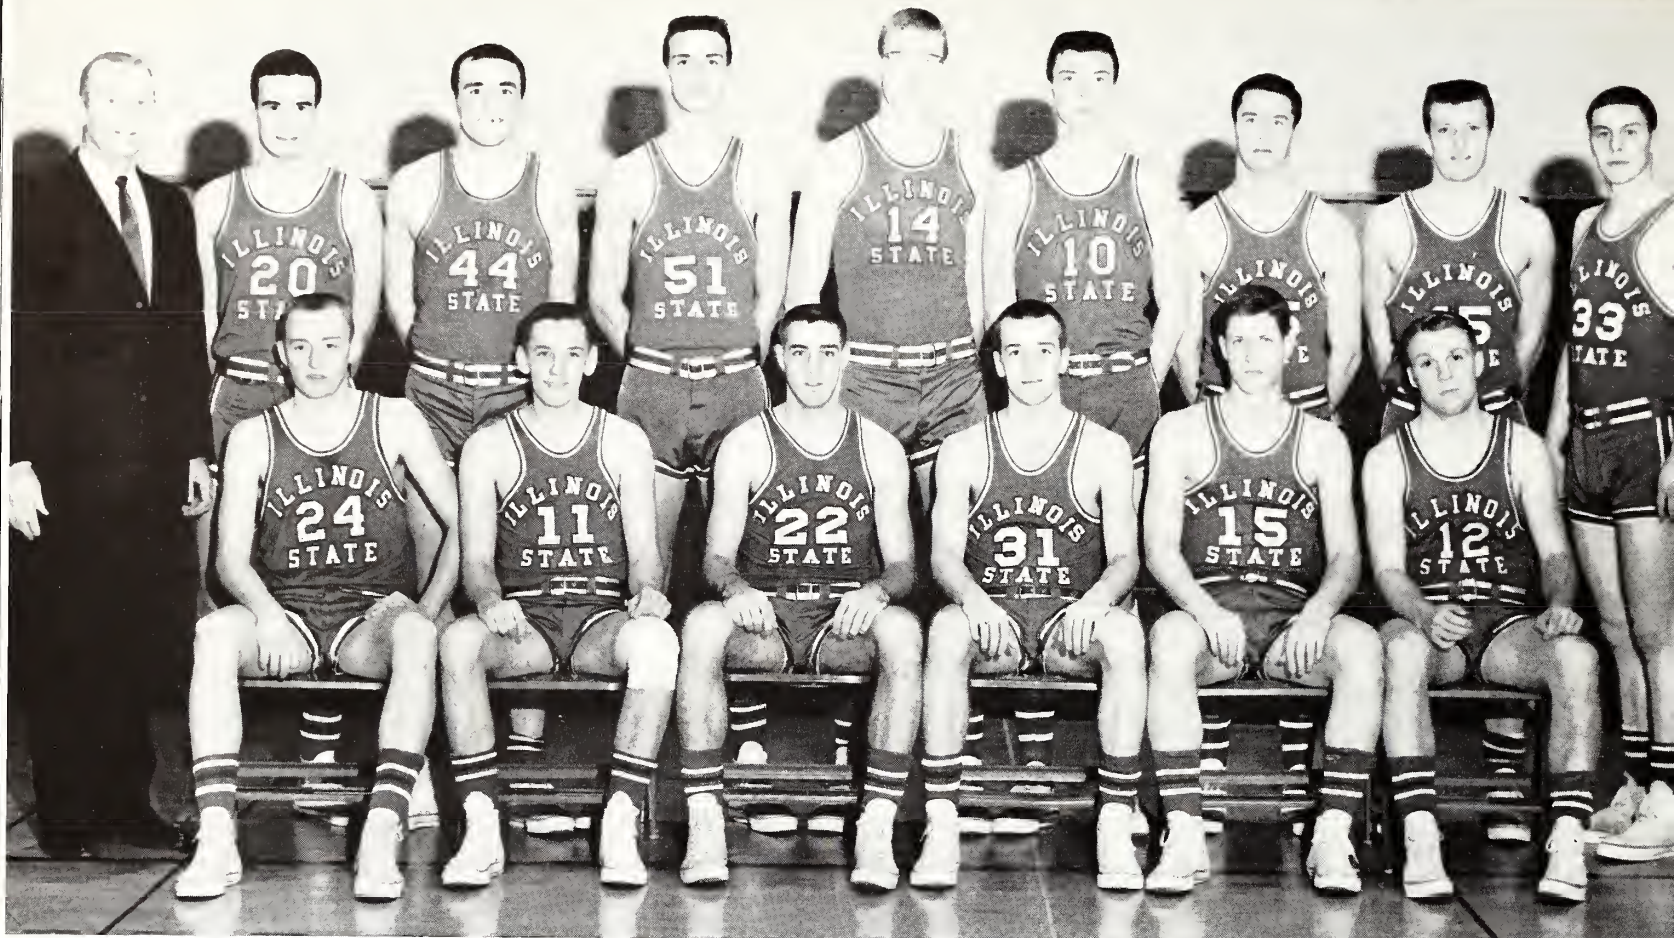

Highlights of the season were the NCAA bid and double victories over such teams as Wartburg, Culver-Stockton, Eastern Michigan, and Central Michigan. Freshmen players who showed promise of future worth included Fred Horn and Preston Jordan. Jim Moran, a junior, played well when called upon to bolster the starting five. Moran averaged 6.8 points per match in addition to pulling down 6.5 rebounds per outing. As a team, the Birdies clipped the nets at a .426 pace on field goal attempts and .727 on charity tosses. The big Red averaged 74.88 points per game over the 25-game grind. Prior to the NCAA tourney the Redbirds were sporting a 16 won, 9 lost record.

Only a 106-90 defeat at the hands of Eastern Illinois University separated the JVs from a perfect campaign. Included in the junior varsity's 13 wins were double victories over LaSalle-Peru-Oglesby, Northern Illinois, Western Illinois, and arch-rival Illinois Wesleyan. This year's JV squad should provide much of the depth needed to aid next winter's varsity.

WRESTLING

Pins, Takedowns, and Riding Time

A lack of experience among the younger members of the team combined with the graduation of Reggie Weaver left quite a void on the mats for the 1961-1962 Illinois State wrestling squad. Though the matmen found themselves victorious on only four occasions during the winter, the team as a whole gained much experience which will pay off in the '62-'63 campaign. Among the grapplers' four victims were the Big Blue of Millikin and the University of Missouri.

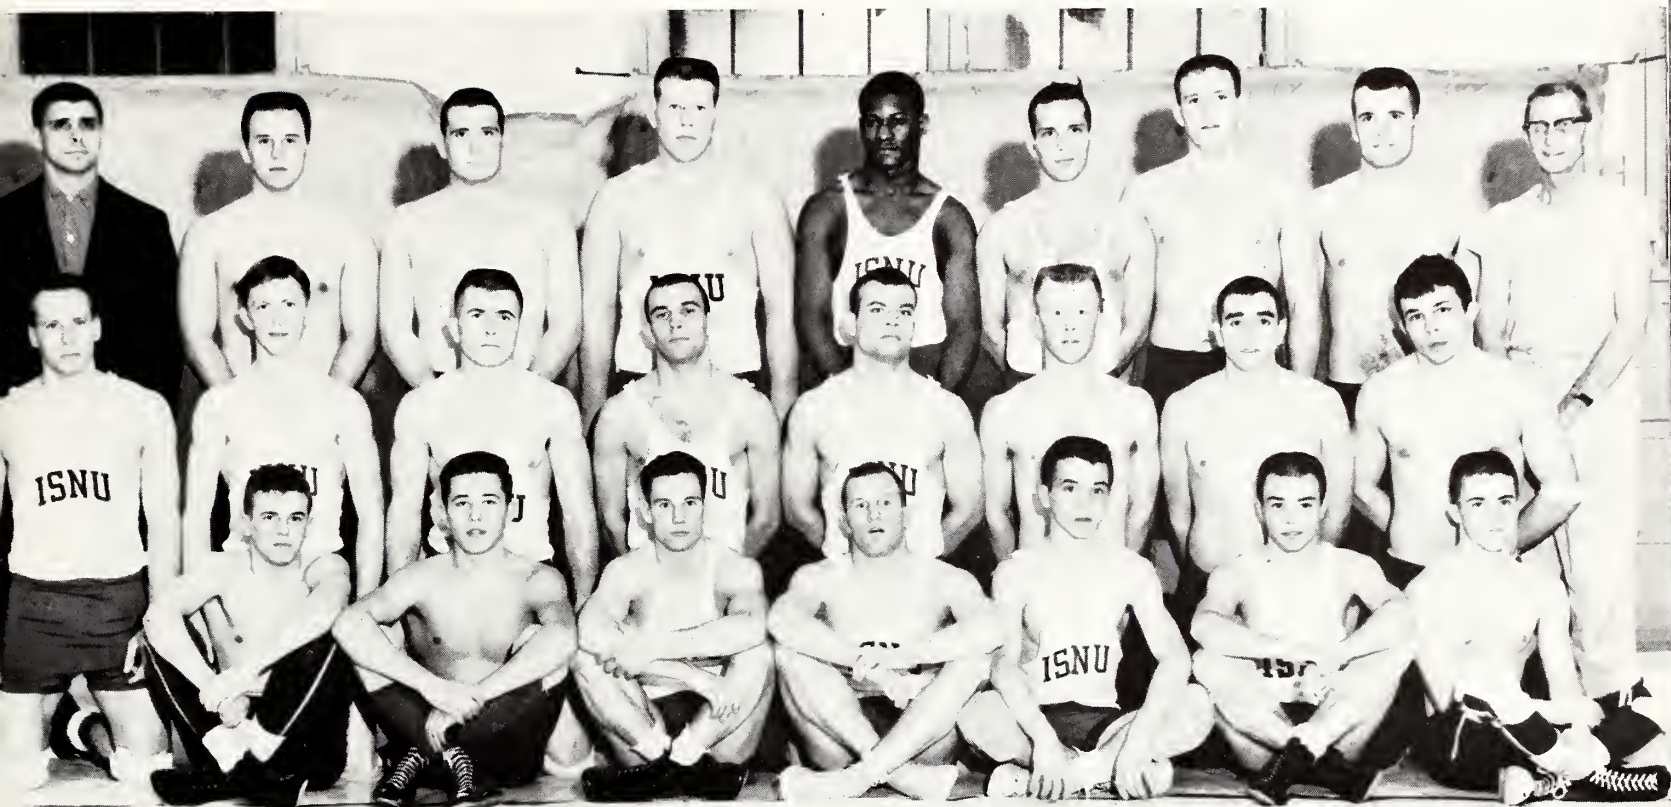

For the second successive year, senior Dave Sheridan won the Hudelson award given annually to the wrestler with the most pins to his credit. Matmen who should be in the running for next year's award include Carl Hovde, Mike Emmons, and Abbidula Randle El.

The Redbird harriers suffered teamwise from a lack of experience, but shone brilliantly in the person of Mike Mittelstaedt. Mike also was the individual winner in all seven of the team's dual meets.

GYMNASTICS

At Last . . . Long Deserved Victory

After five years of frustrations, Illinois State's recently formed gymnastics team displayed present worth and future promise in winning three of eight regular season meets. Prior to this campaign, the ISNU gymnastics team had never before won a meet. However the gymnasts saved the best for the last as they finished a surprising third in the conference meet. Much of the credit for the team's IIAC third must go to freshman Paul Ziert who scored more than half of his team's total of 55 points. Ziert captured a first in tumbling in addition to a second and a third in free exercise and trampoline. Other standout performers for ISNU were junior John Baltes, who placed in free exercise, horizontal bars, tumbling, and all-around for a total of 14 points; Bob Price, who placed tenth in trampoline; Ryan Smith, who placed on the side horse; and Dan Malloy and Alan Weith who placed fifth and tenth respectively on the still rings.

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

Through Teamwork . . Victory All Around

"How can we spend our spare time to the best advantage?" Consciously or unconsciously, more than half the men on our campus answered this question by competing in such group sports as basketball, football, softball, volleyball, and baseball. Regularly scheduled games and tournaments provided incentive for the team spirit, sportsmanship, and honesty necessary for victory in its truest sense. During the year these men inevitably acquired greater athletic proficiency. Through imitation of skills and experience in the sports of their choice, they improved not only their knowledge of each particular activity, but also their general physical condition. The individual recreation—bowling, golf, swimming, and tennis—imposed no limit upon the amount of ingenuity, strategy, and coordination attained by each participant. Success is directly proportional to hard work, determination, and ability. Everyone found this axiom to hold true in athletic as well as academic life.

Height, speed, and agility combine with teamwork as these men practice their skills in volleyball.

N CLUB ... the Industrious Lettermen

To win an athletic event requires much team spirit; to run an effective organization demands an equal amount. "Man of the N" filled both requirements as they trained for their busy athletic schedules and planned all-school and inter-school activities. The group provided for homecoming queen petitions and all arrangements involving her majesty. Construction of new field house was accelerated by their donation.

"Anyone for popcorn?" ask these enterprising N Club members of an eager crowd attending a basketball game.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

Exercise of Mind and Body

With the Kennedy administration admonishing the American citizen to keep physically fit, the college student feels obligated to consider an adequate program of recreation for his personal needs. To the women students of our University this problem is minimized by the comprehensive program offered them in intramural sports. Fall activities included such diverse pastimes as field hockey and fencing, while the winter weather necessitated a transition to basketball, volleyball, and bowling. Spring provided opportunity for girls to sharpen their skill in tennis, softball, and golf. A favorite with many participants in intramurals is swimming, offered to students on a year-round basis. As the season for each sport draws to a close, tournaments are organized by the Intramural Chairman of the Women's Recreation Association. Serving as a desirable corollary to fulfillment in competitive fun and relaxing exercise is a full sense of group co-operation and teamwork. This promotion of group sportsmanship personifies the most significant result of intramurals.

WRA ... Integrating Experiences

In scrapbooks lie a wealth of memories relived each time members look upon them.

Physical fitness becomes an all-inclusive term to members of the Women's Recreation Association. A sense of individual and group competition pervaded the activities here on campus. Travel to Eastern and Western, Northern and Southern Illinois Universities brought a chance to make new acquaintances as well as learn to co-operate with them in working as part of a team. Known for many years as College Play Day, these tours, sponsored by the Association, help to arrange schedules for the girls of both schools, emphasizing one extramural activity. The WRA Coke Hour gave members an opportunity to socialize.

TRACK

Track and field enthusiasts got more than their share of action during the past season as the Redbird track squad competed in eleven separate outdoor meets. These eleven events were preceded by a number of indoor matches during the winter. Highlight of the season was a Normal Invitational at McCormick Field which saw the Birdies amass 111 total points while romping over Chanute and Eureka.

ISNU Tracksters Vault to IIAC Fifth

Tom Tucker set a new meet record in the State Intercollegiate Meet as he put the shot 50 feet, 1 inch. Tucker also finished fifth in the discus. Don Korte finished runnerup in the 100 yard dash, while the Birdies ended sixth in the nine team meet.

Following the State Intercollegiate at Macomb, Illinois State traveled to Elmhurst where the Redbirds completed third in the Elmhurst Invitational.

In the final and most important meet of the season, the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference match, the Birdies finished in fifth position ahead of both Eastern Michigan and Eastern Illinois University. In this match, which brings together all of the conference teams in the IIAC, Tucker added another championship to his slate as he won the shot put with a heave of 51 feet, 5½ inches. This mark bettered the one Tucker had set earlier in the State Intercollegiate Meet. Korte completed second to Western's speedster Leroy Jackson in both the 100 and 200 yard dashes. Jackson set a new loop mark of :09.5 in the 100 yard run. Ron Schieber, whose track prowess earned him a berth in the backfield on the gridiron, finished behind Korte in both the 100 and 220. "Whitey" Ruzycki, suffering from an earlier injury, came in fourth in the javelin toss and Tucker completed the ISNU scoring with a third place in the discus throw.

Although losing Tucker and Ruzycki, the tracksters expect the slack to be taken up by Schieber, Korte, and Mike Peterson. Peterson set a new indoor mark for ISNU of 6 feet, ¾ inches in the high jump at the North Central Invitational.

TENNIS

Although losing their first six dual meets, the Illinois State netmen concluded their nineteen game campaign with a 6-11 record. Four of the losses were by a single point, and one was to powerful Bradley University.

Fine performances in the conference meet by two pairs of Birdie netters enabled ISNU to finish fifth in the seven team meet. Bob Walmsley and team captain Don Chapman teamed to finish runners up in No. 1 doubles, while Dale Lego and Kelley Meitzler won the No. 2 doubles. Meitzler also finished runner-up in No. 5 singles division. Central Michigan copped the IIAC meet with 15 points. ISNU finished with eight points, one less than fourth place Southern Illinois University.

Although winning only three of thirteen divot matches during the regular campaign, the Redbird golfers blasted over four conference foes to finish third in the IIAC meet with 623 total strokes. Runnerup Western Illinois scored nine strokes behind champion Southern Illinois University's 596 total. Two Birdies, Bob "Red" Davis, and Burles Bennett, completed among the top ten in the individual standings. Co-captain Davis came in eighth with a 76-75—151, while Bennett finished tenth with a 79-75—154, for the 36 hole conference meet. BASEBALL

Birdies Finish Third in IIAC

After losing the first game of the season to Washington University, the Redbird nine got off the ground to win their next eight starts and 11 of their following 12 contests. Included in this total were series sweeps over Indiana Central, McKendree College, Lewis College, and Western Illinois University.

Two consecutive losses to conference champion Southern Illinois University slowed down the Birdie flight as the diamondmen split the remaining 18 games. Consequently, Illinois State finished with a 20-11 season record and a 10-7 conference mark.

Coach Harold Frye's lineup featured an evenly balanced attack with nearly equal power throughout. Capturing the team batting crown was sophomore Bill Brown of Danvers with a lofty .359 average. Brown obtained an even more impressive batting average in the IIAC as he led the conference with a .450 mark. Jim High topped the mound corps with four victories and no losses and also led in the earned run department with a 2.62 runs-per-game average.

ORGANIZATIONS

Stacks of applications pose a controversy in granting the Outstanding Senior Awards.

STUDENT SENATE . . . A Better Government

Publicizing their activities and urging students to take an interest in their school government requires much time and concentration on the part of Senate members.

Through Innovation and Sponsorship

Whether it be late fall or early spring, one interested in the governing body of Illinois State Normal University can see the Student Senate in action. Throughout the year representatives from all departments on campus sponsored many projects. In accordance with the controversial topic of changing the name of the University to Illinois State, the group launched an "I.S.U. in '62" campaign, distributing I.S.U. buttons and arranging for speakers to give their views in support of the movement. Also on their agenda was the conducting of all class elections held during the year and providing backing for the annual Campus Chest drive, a project through which they collected funds in behalf of international programs such as UNESCO and CARE. Newly-instituted was their aid in opening the Centennial East Building and its art exhibits to the public, and the rewriting of the Student Senate Constitution in an effort to establish an education system for new officers and members. As the year drew to a close, the Senate performed its final duty, that of choosing the recipients of the Outstanding Senior Awards; however, plans for next year continued in a formative stage.

UNIVERSITY UNION BOARD

Dancing, Skiing . . . Activities Unlimited

Cooperation, recreation, and participation—key words in describing the functions of the University Union Board. The Board, consisting of twelve students and four faculty members, works together in the planning and supervising of a recreational program for all attending the University. In an official role, it advises the administration on building policies.

Under the sponsorship of the Board, the Christmas Dance and the Sweetheart Ball provided melodious entertainment in rhythm. Homecoming weekend found members engaged in planning the Bonfire Bounce, an all-school informal. Table tennis, bridge, and other indoor sports solicited student participation. As a special feature this year, the University Union Board offered a picturesque European tour to extend over a month's time and to provide the unmatched education of travel. Ski trips held in northern states during semester vacation tested the adeptness of the athletically inclined.

'T' stands for talent—essential in balancing on a ladder and hanging decorations.

In a heated discussion, members voice their opinions and make decisions affecting the social center of the entire student body.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Serving their campus, local chapters, community, and nation, members of Alpha Phi Omega assembled in the fellowship of the scout oath and law. Projects of the group included the annual American Red Cross Blood Drive and the distribution of free desk blotters giving information about our campus.

BUSINESS EDUCATION CLUB

In today's changing business world, guest speakers find ample topics for keeping Business Education Club members up to date. This active club group holds annual initiations, judges homecoming decorations, sponsors after-game dances and a picnic held in the spring semester.

CLOVERLEAF COLLEGIATE

Paramount in the activities of the Cloverleaf Collegiate 4-H Club is a personal project in knitting, sewing, or cooking, completed by each member for competitive showing. The club's interest extended beyond the domestic field with its study of Broadway musicals as this year's special emphasis.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

Patterning this year's program around the betterment of "Tomorrow's Teacher," the Elementary Education Club viewed up-to-date and effective teaching methods in demonstration of "TV in the School." George Wilkins, Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, addressed an open meeting.

Seated: Judith Schahl, president; Bernadine Peliwo, vice-president. Standing: Miss Luella Schultze, adviser; Barbara Budde, secretary; Judy Kime, treasurer; Miss Ethel Wooley, adviser.

ENGLISH CLUB

The language and literature of English may often baffle many Americans, but to the members of English Club they are of main interest. This year Dr. Vetter, Mr. May, Dr. Canning, and Mr. Cox gave a panel discussion on contemporary writing. Others debated "The Listeners."

FORENSIC UNION

Serving as a good-will ambassador for our University was the Forensic Union in sponsoring a debate with Cambridge University of England. The topic, "Is the West Waging a Losing Battle," aroused much interest. In addition, traveling club members participated in speech tournaments.

Seated: Janice Blackburn, president; Carol Berthold, vice-president. Standing: Dennis Gouran, treasurer; Judy Kellogg, secretary; Mr. Ted Jackson, adviser.

GERMAN CLUB

"Sprechen Sie Deutsch?" "Ja," says this thriving new group which offers many opportunities for conversing in German and for examining old country traditions. After sponsoring a puppet show and a Christmas party, Dr. Else Schmidt highlighted the club's program by lecturing entirely in German.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

To the Home Economics Club, providing for professional development of college home economics students is very important. At monthly meetings, representatives of Merle Norman Cosmetics, the Paul Anderson Store, and the Fashion Shop talked on fashion coordination and good grooming.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

With an active year ahead, the 90 students of the Industrial Arts Club began with a picnic-membership drive, followed by the sponsoring of a Gamma Phi Queen candidate and a Regional IA Exhibit. As a service to the school, the club printed and sold the Student Directory.

LA ESTUDIANTINA

Advancing knowledge of the Spanish language and culture is the goal which La Estudiantina sets before its members. Such interesting events as a lecture in Spanish by a representative of Los Amigos Restaurant and the preparation of enchiladas added realism to textbook learning.

Why is Latin important today? To help members obtain such answers for their inquisitive future students, the Latin Club emphasized participation in national organizations. Besides presenting a skit on Roman education, they heard Dr. Manahan discuss "Advanced Placement in Latin."

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

With eagerness to speak the French language and to appreciate the national culture, Le Cercle Francais combined sociability with learning. Members rehearsed and displayed their oral abilities by presenting a French play and enjoying a colorful representation of the Mardi Gras.

MATHEMATICS CLUB

Supplementing material covered in class, members of the Mathematics Club discussed the applications of principles and statistics to industry. Pertinently, guest speakers described industrial innovations, such as the electrically-powered car and magnetic tape for computing machines.

Seated: Bob Middleton, president. Standing: Lee Hren, secretary; Fred von der Linden, vice-president; Mr. Wayne Treux, adviser. Not Pictured: Barry Heaton, treasurer.

MEN'S P. E. CLUB

Sponsoring such events as the Danish Gymnastic team, a U. of I. Gizz Kids wheelchair basketball game, and a cheer-leading clinic, the Men's P.E. Club added to their regular program of educational films and professional speakers. As a service to students, the group awarded two scholarships.

NAACP

"Better relations between various groups on campus is the aim of NAACP," stated Dr. Jackson, adviser. This year the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People devoted its time to integrating Normal's barber shops, Bloomington's restaurants, and finding homes for Negro students.

Seated: Cathy Koski, president; Martha Eubank, vice-president. Standing: Cheryl Sass, secretary-treasurer; Norm Kauffmann, historian; Dr. Donald Ries, adviser.

NATURALIST CLUB

The Naturalist Club, serving the combined fields of biology and natural science, enlarged academic study by providing useful interpretations of factual material. Through representatives from the University of Illinois and the Illinois State Natural Survey, the group realized its purpose.

Seated: Herman Detweiler, president; Kay Byers, vice-president. Standing: Dr. Robert Cramer, adviser; Linda LaBounty, secretary; Terrance Jacobs, treasurer; Dr. R. U. Gooding, adviser.

PHYSICAL SCIENCE CLUB

Phenomena are everyday occurrences in the world of science. A display case in Felmley Hall and a lecture series by graduate students were the Physical Science Club's projects for this year. All physical science majors or minors can develop a deeper interest by participating in the club.

RUSSIAN CLUB

Helping its members to translate the seemingly-jumbled symbols of a foreign alphabet, the Russian Club offered a more informal opportunity to gain accuracy in speaking the language. As a relatively new group, they viewed films on the country and studied its culture through a series of lectures.

SCIENCE CLUB

Entering its year's activities with the theme, "A Broader View," the Science Club listened to Dr. E. Scott Blankenship. Following meetings featured talks on mathematics, fire control, and an informative speech on civil defense given by Mr. Mercier and Mr. Sanders, the local and county directors.

SHUFFLIN' SHOES

With a whirl of skirts and tap of shoes, students in the interests of square and round dancing attended the Shufflin' Shoes meetings. This year the members made a study of dance composition, cooperated in planning original variations, and lended their voices to the call of square dance music.

Seated: Millard Brewer, president; Lilleth Gregory, secretary. Standing: Dorothy Lewis, treasurer; Jim Fetzer, Dr. Douglas Poe, adviser. Not Pictured: Barbara Showers, vice-president.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB

Applying the principles of accepted government to our own Student Senate, members of the Social Science Club discussed the question of better student government on campus. Such study programs provided students with a more complete understanding of our society and its elements.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

The braces a child sets near his bed at night symbolize the work of the Special Education Club. In learning methods of teaching the exceptional child, the club sponsored Y-nights, the toy workshop evening, and encouraged membership in the Council for Exceptional Children.

STUDENT N.E. A.

The Student National Education Association amazingly increased its membership by three hundred per cent this year. Programs were "Mock Interview," "Finding the Right Teaching Position," and "Things No One Told Us." Foreign students spoke on Christmas in their home lands.

Seated: Patricia Ridulph, president. Standing: Louise Glass, historian; John Majernik, secretary; Sharon Thomas, vice-president. Not Pictured: Dr. Leo Eastman, adviser; Judy Smith, treasurer.

WOMEN'S P.E. CLUB

The Women's Physical Education Club sponsored Dr. Brightbill from the University of Illinois P.E. Department as guest speaker at the Alumni banquet. Other events included a Christmas party, co-sponsorship of the Danish Gymnastic team with the Men's P.E. Club, and a stunt show.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Young Democrats have caught their party's spirit—moving forward with emphasis on the nation's youth. Increased club membership, representing many departments of the University and both sexes, plus the enthusiasm to take part in politics as informed Democrats, reflects this unifying, vital spirit.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS

Vividly presenting issues of the day to the Young Republicans Club were Senator Dirksen, Representative Findley, and Secretary of State Carpentier. Members participated actively by conducting a preference poll on campus and by attending state and mid-western conventions.

UNIVERSITY CLUB

Through Loyalty and Hard Work... Unity

Democratic in its membership and philosophy is the University Club, representing the male sector on our campus. President Chuck Sandine, a senior in physical science from Champaign; Vice-president Larry Little, a senior in health and physical education from Winchester; and Secretary-treasurer Chuck Horner, a senior in physical science from Chicago comprised an energetic guide. Together they governed meetings, organized and helped to execute activities, accumulated, judged and gave value to the range of ideas and opinions involving all men enrolled at the University.

Traditional, yet new and more meaningful each year, was the quietly inspiring Christmas service, presented from the simple background of Capen stage decked in pine branches. Enforcing their policy to improve the spirit of loyalty and unity, the University Club sponsored two spectator buses to the football game at Western Illinois University, and introduced the 1961-62 school year with an all-school mixer. Through such projects as these, University Club extended the social welfare not only of its members, but helped to integrate activities involving the entire student body.

ASSOCIATION OF WOMEN STUDENTS (Women's League)

Pursuit of Excellence

Always commendable are idealistic motives; however, if an organization is to have impact upon its members or campus life, it must transcend dreams and create realities. Such can be ascribed to Women's League, now termed The Association of Women Students, as it seeks progress through student unity. Corresponding with this year's regional theme, "Pursuit of Excellence," are the club's activities in social, civic, personal, and professional betterment. Cooperating with the University Club, Women's League co-sponsored the annual Big Four dances as well as many campus mixers and formal dances. In conjunction with civic groups such as the League of Women Voters, club members acquired not only valuable lessons in citizenship, but also experience in group participation. The Campus Sister program serves as a stimulus for attaining personal maturity, essential in professional success and satisfaction. These, then, were the goals which dominated the girls' curricula as they gathered for their regional convention held on our campus this spring. The convention culminated a year's experience as the girls put their philosophy into practice meeting delegates from eight states.

The snow is almost gone . . . the sidewalk wet and sloshy . . . and, as we leave church, the thought of Sunday's sermon lingers in mind.

Religion . . . Man's Search for Inner Peace

Taking time out for God, you walk unhurriedly to church, for here is a quiet place where those around you are the same people who make up a bustling campus. Today they are humble, pensive, seeking guidance, offering thanks, stilled by the thought of their Creator. A single hour in your life has diminished the confusion and doubt which had accumulated in a far longer time. Now, looking back to behold an austere and silent strength, you turn and descend the stairway, ready to meet another week. Now, the sun is shining brightly; you are at peace with the world.

APOSTOLIC CHRISTIAN BIBLE CLASS

Assisted monthly by three guest ministers from various Apostolic Christian Churches of America, members of the Bible class followed their interpretation of the Scriptures as left by Christ and the Apostles. Group singing and thought-provoking discussions complemented study.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

Through fellowship and Bible study, the Baptist Student Union enriches social and church life. In a summer missions program, students helped establish new churches and worked in the vacation Bible schools of such places as Hawaii, Panama, Africa, and South America, where they extended good will.

B'NAI B'RITH HILLEL

Relatively new on campus is the B'nai B'rith Hillel Councilorship. This club organizes Jewish students for enjoying the cultural and social activities of our school. Vital in its program is observance of religious holidays, Yam Kippur and Hanukkah, with Hebrews of our community.

CANTERBURY CLUB

Student communion services highlighted the religious experiences which Canterbury Club offered students of Episcopalian faith. Consistent with their spiritual programs were discussions "Music of the Church" and "Religious Life on Campus," led respectively by Mr. Charles and Reverend Ash.

Seated: Edmund Schott, vice-president; Jean Matthews, president; Karen Magnuson, secretary; Becky Kilgore, treasurer. Standing: Mr. Kenneth Ledbetter, adviser; Marcia Dempsey, Sandra Nettz, Eugene Horcher, Karene Val-landigham, Ronald Dairo.

CHANNING-MURRAY

Unitarians and Universalists merge. An organization of free belief, a church without a formal creed, Channing-Murray opens its doors to all students. Dr. Christensen's discussion on Hinduism and a talk on Judaism by a Rabbi advanced the members' knowledge of age-old religious principles.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

A meaningful awareness of God in our ever complex and changing world is the goal of Christian Science Club members. In pursuance of this ideal, lecturer Ralph Cessna, representative of the church headquarters in Boston, visited our campus, inspiring students to achieve deeper spiritual experiences.

EUB FELLOWSHIP

Active in programs which provide relaxation and sociability for members is the Evangelical United Brethren Fellowship. The atmosphere of informal monthly meetings invites freedom in the discussion of conflicting philosophies as students search for a personal understanding of their religious faith.

IVCF

Not only do college students need the knowledge of textbooks, but also the knowledge of Christ. With this goal in mind, the Intersarsity Christian Fellowship opens its doors in hopes of fostering spiritual growth. Emphasizing missionary life, the group listened to a religious worker from Peru.

Seated: Phyllis Mathre, secretary; Barb Cooke, president; Bonnie Gillespie, vice-president; Jerry Eggers, treasurer. Standing: Ruth Bowen, Judy Ackerman, Rosie Allen, Calvin Snow, Ron Tracy, Sandra Presley, Dr. Harlowe Evans, adviser.

LUTHERAN CLUB

Uniting many factions of the church and imparting beneficial religious leadership are important goals to the Lutheran Club. Clergymen of various synods offered spiritual enrichment, while a Christmas caroling party, alumni reception, and a candlelight initiation encouraged sociability.

Seated: Richard Snowberg, president; Barbara Lynn, vice-president. Standing: Brian Schaar, treasurer; Larry Krannich, secretary; Mr. Lynn Brown, adviser.

NEWMAN CLUB

This year Newman Club added to its Homecoming festivities a "spirit display" erected in front of the newly-completed Newman Club Center. Now numbering over three hundred-sixty, these Newmanites strive to bring more emphasis upon Christian living and the use of religion in everyday life.

WESLEY FOUNDATION

For the Wesley Foundation the Winter State Conference was one of the foremost religious highlights of the year. Social events such as caroling, church suppers, religious discussions, weekly meetings, and the first-place homecoming float contributed fellowship to the activities.

YWCA

Celebrating its eighty-ninth birthday is Normal's YWCA, the oldest campus chapter in America. Serving the students with a homecoming mum sale, the club supplements its meetings with "faculty fireside" programs where members and faculty discuss such topics as "Better Red or Dead?"

HONORARIES

ALPHA BETA ALPHA

In "Getting Acquainted with Types of Libraries," Alpha Beta Alpha, the honorary library science fraternity, heard Dr. Ferguson talk on medical, college, and church libraries. Following the regional convention in Terre Haute, Indiana, the members concluded the year with a Founder's Day Luncheon.

ALPHA TAU ALPHA

To provide a means of obtaining ideas and information relative to their future vocations, members of Alpha Tau Alpha, the honorary agriculture fraternity, participated in an annual high school judging contest. Social events included a chili supper, a barbecue, and the Hobert Medal Award Banquet.

GAMMA THETA EPSILON

An honorary geography fraternity, Gamma Theta Epsilon's primary objective was to show the relationship of geography to current events. The group sponsored the talks of two geographers: Mr. D'Sonza from India and Mr. Harel from Israel. Members concluded their activities with a field trip.

Seated: Roger Pearson, president; Betty Allen, secretary. Standing: Chuck Burton, treasurer; Dr. Thomas Searight, adviser.

IOTA LAMBDA SIGMA

Emphasizing high scholarship, Iota Lambda Sigma serves as an honorary fraternity for industrial arts students. Creating and maintaining a close bond between members and their teachers, the organization held its annual Homecoming luncheon. More than eighty present and past members reunited.

Seated: Colette Kennedy, corresponding secretary; Jean Golliday, recording secretary; Anna Marie Bazik, president; Maxine Daniel, vice-president; Donna Giofre, treasurer. Standing: Miss Inez Mauck, adviser; Barbara Miller, Charlene Carper, historian; Donna Bessant, Barb Wiegand, Linda Girard, Judy Champagne, Miss Louise Farmer, adviser.

KAPPA DELTA EPSILON

"We accept the challenge," stated Kappa Delta Epsilon, the honorary professional education sorority. Using this quote as their theme, members listened to the talks of seven distinguished guests, caroled at the Adams Nursing Home, and planned the Founder's Day Banquet and Annual Play Night.

KAPPA DELTA PI

An honor society in education, Kappa Delta Pi encourages high professional, intellectual, and personal standards and recognizes outstanding contributions to the field of education. This year members held faculty informal discussions and gave a public symposium on "What's Wrong with Education."

KAPPA MU EPSILON

Members of Kappa Mu Epsilon, an honorary mathematics society, furthered their interests by discussing topics beyond the scope of the University's curriculum. Among the group's social activities were a homecoming breakfast, book sale, spring banquet, and a regional convention held in Michigan.

KAPPA OMICRON PHI

A home economics honorary, Kappa Omicron Phi, highlighted its activities with an antique show. Sponsoring the Mother's Day program, this group cooperated with the Home Economics Club. Members Karen Ferguson and Maxine Daniel attended the fraternity's national meeting in Memphis.

Seated: Pat Miles, first vice-president; Karen Ferguson, president; Joy Plattner, second vice-president. Standing: Mrs. Alma Rousey, adviser; Carole Schumacher, secretary; Maxine Daniel, treasurer.

PI GAMMA MU

To secure knowledge seasoned with understanding and to promote action born of cooperation, members of Pi Gamma Mu studied society and its problems. The group sponsored a Christmas party for all foreign students on campus. Jon Ohlson spoke of his homeland, the Union of South Africa.

Seated: Janice Blackburn, president; Carol Berthold, vice-president. Standing: Keith Runyon, Dennis Gouran, treasurer. Not Pictured: Mr. Ted Jackson, adviser; Judy Kellogg, secretary.

PI KAPPA DELTA

In hosting the Invitational Debate Tournament, members of Pi Kappa Delta welcomed participants from over fifty universities. In such events these honorary speech students gained administrative experience and habits of spontaneous evaluation through team and individual speaking.

PI OMEGA PI

Initiating new pledges twice a year, Pi Omega Pi extends its membership to the honor students in business education. Mr. Smith, director of student loans on campus, revealed the essentials of his profession during an informative discussion. An annual Christmas party and spring picnic provided social and informal get-togethers for students.

SIGMA TAU DELTA

Striving to encourage the fellowship of individuals skilled in creative writing, Sigma Tau Delta nurtured both an appreciation of timeless literature and the development of writing ability. This year the members published a magazine composed of specially selected articles submitted by students.

THETA ALPHA PHI

In sharing the experience of a European theater tour with members of Theta Alpha Phi, Miss Mabel Allen captured the club's enthusiasm toward drama. An equally vital role in the program of this honorary is to foster participation in such school-sponsored productions as "Love's Labors Lost."

Seated: Constance Hamilton, president; Ann Bastian, vice-president. Standing: Marsha Turner, secretary-treasurer; Dr. Harry Stiver, adviser. Not Pictured: Miss Mabel Allen, adviser; Chuck Laundra, historian.

To The Outstanding ... Recognition and Tribute

Greek letters at Illinois State Normal University have come to be synonymous with outstanding achievement in one's field. The lamps burning brightly in a dormitory window, the unexhausted research of Milner's reams of books, the writing of themes and papers—to the scholar evenings have little designation of minutes and hours; time is lost as he explores the infinite world of knowledge before him. Study is sometimes voluntary, sometimes not—but in either case academic excellence gives distinction and designates qualification for membership in an honorary society. Sharing experience and newly formulated ideas with his peer group, the student matures and gains confidence.

Scholars may be rewarded in another way—aid in the financing of their education. Relying solely or partially on scholarships are almost all of the students at the University. Supported by private school foundations and granted by philanthropic organizations are the scholarships held by three percent of our students. Over seventy percent hold grants from the state.

HONOR RESIDENTS

Work, Fun, and Knowledge...

Whether a girl needs personal advice or more popcorn, an HR is always willing to help.

As one of her many duties, an HR helps check in dorm guests.

The Rewards of Sacrifice

Often, as night comes, an honor resident is weary; yet, if she has helped just one girl, her day has not been wasted. Endlessly the HR scurries here and there. Her hours are spent in arranging programs, discussing ways to improve dorm life, backing the girls as they compete in various school activities . . . and, when the year is over, an HR is proud of her work, for she has helped college women to better lives.

STUDENT TEACHING

A Test of Knowledge . . .

Rays of sunlight beamed through a ceiling of broken gray and added to the rain-speckled grass a new scent of life. It was early morning as you strolled down the walk and your image reflected in the many puddles lazily scattered along the way. So strange was the thought of yesterday . . . your casual jaunt across campus, dressed in typical college attire. Now, today, you are a student teacher on your way to a new experience.

Who could count the hundred thoughts whirling through your mind? Although nervous and afraid, you felt an unexplainable pride and confidence in your abilities and this gave you that necessary reassurance. What were the things that Dr. Lauby and Dr. Madore kept telling you? . . . Look and act like a teacher, be natural, and above all, use common sense . . . Yes, you were going to try your best, for now would be applied all of the knowledge and maturity that four years of college had helped you attain.

Before this day arrived, you visited the school, met your critics, and happily found them to be understanding and cooperative. Next came your search for nine-weeks' housing, but even this was not a serious problem. Clothes buying, too, made a tug at your purse strings. Maybe one suit and a few ties were all that could be afforded. Yet, your main objective was to look well-groomed no matter how new or old the apparel.

Now the time had come . . . the school was before you . . . a new threshold was about to be crossed.

During the first week or so, classroom observations and critic conferences occupied much of your time. Back at the University, friends were doing on-campus student teaching; but, unfortunately, neither of you could find the time, amid rigorous schedules, to write each other those faithfully-promised letters.

One day, the supervisor from Normal arrived to watch you teach. Previously he had checked the weekly statements you sent to the student teaching office and was reasonably certain that your work would prove satisfactory. Proudly for you, it did.

Now teaching began to feel natural. Hardly a second thought was given to that first-fear of stepping before a class. You were there for a teaching experience and you were getting it. At night many hours were spent preparing lesson plans; yet, how proud you felt when that particular unit of classwork went smoothly. Making out tests become a common item, and amazingly you realized that it was just as hard to construct and grade exams as it was to take them.

Then, finally, the last day of practice teaching arrived. It seemed strange that four years of waiting was now over. To your students, your critics, and your principal it was goodbye; but to a promising life in the teaching profession it was now an enthusiastic hello.

Only a last minute talk from the principal is necessary as these students now get ready to join the teaching profession.

FOREIGN STUDENTS... An International Bond

A new and different world spreads before our foreign students, giving them their first glimpse of American life. Students from all parts of Asia, Africa, and Europe come to our University seeking to better their education. While here each individual finds the opportunity not only to meet other foreign students but also to acquire many new and close friendships with American students and their families. When he returns to his native land, the foreign visitor will have many new and modern methods of teaching and of community life.

The YWCA extends its invitation to a special party for faculty and foreign students—an annual Valentine celebration.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Knowledge Through Man's Initiative

For many college students, receiving a Bachelor of Science in Education degree is often the beginning toward advanced coursework and independent study in special areas of education. From the day they petition, these men and women begin a series of graduate procedures. They must receive their notifications of acceptance, file the option of a proposal for a thesis or research papers, petition for admittance to candidacy for the degree; and prepare for the oral and written comprehensive examinations.

In their course of study, many students have the opportunity to serve as graduate assistants in their departments or as counselors in campus residence halls. Each assignment is issued in accordance with its contribution to professional careers.

First offered at the University in 1943, our graduate study program has given Master's degrees to more than a thousand persons, and in 1958, the school long-term planning committee recommended consideration of programs beyond the Master's level. After three years, the Graduate School suggested a plan for the following degrees: Specialist in Education, Doctor of Philosophy, and Doctor of Education. Authorization to confer these degrees upon students completing the requirements was granted by the Teachers College Board in 1961.

For the year 1962-1963, the Graduate School and the Teachers College Board have approved programs and degrees as follows: art, doctoral degrees; biological sciences, doctoral degrees; school administration, specialist and doctoral degrees . . . all including an emphasis upon the preparation of teachers and administrators for public schools and college teachers.

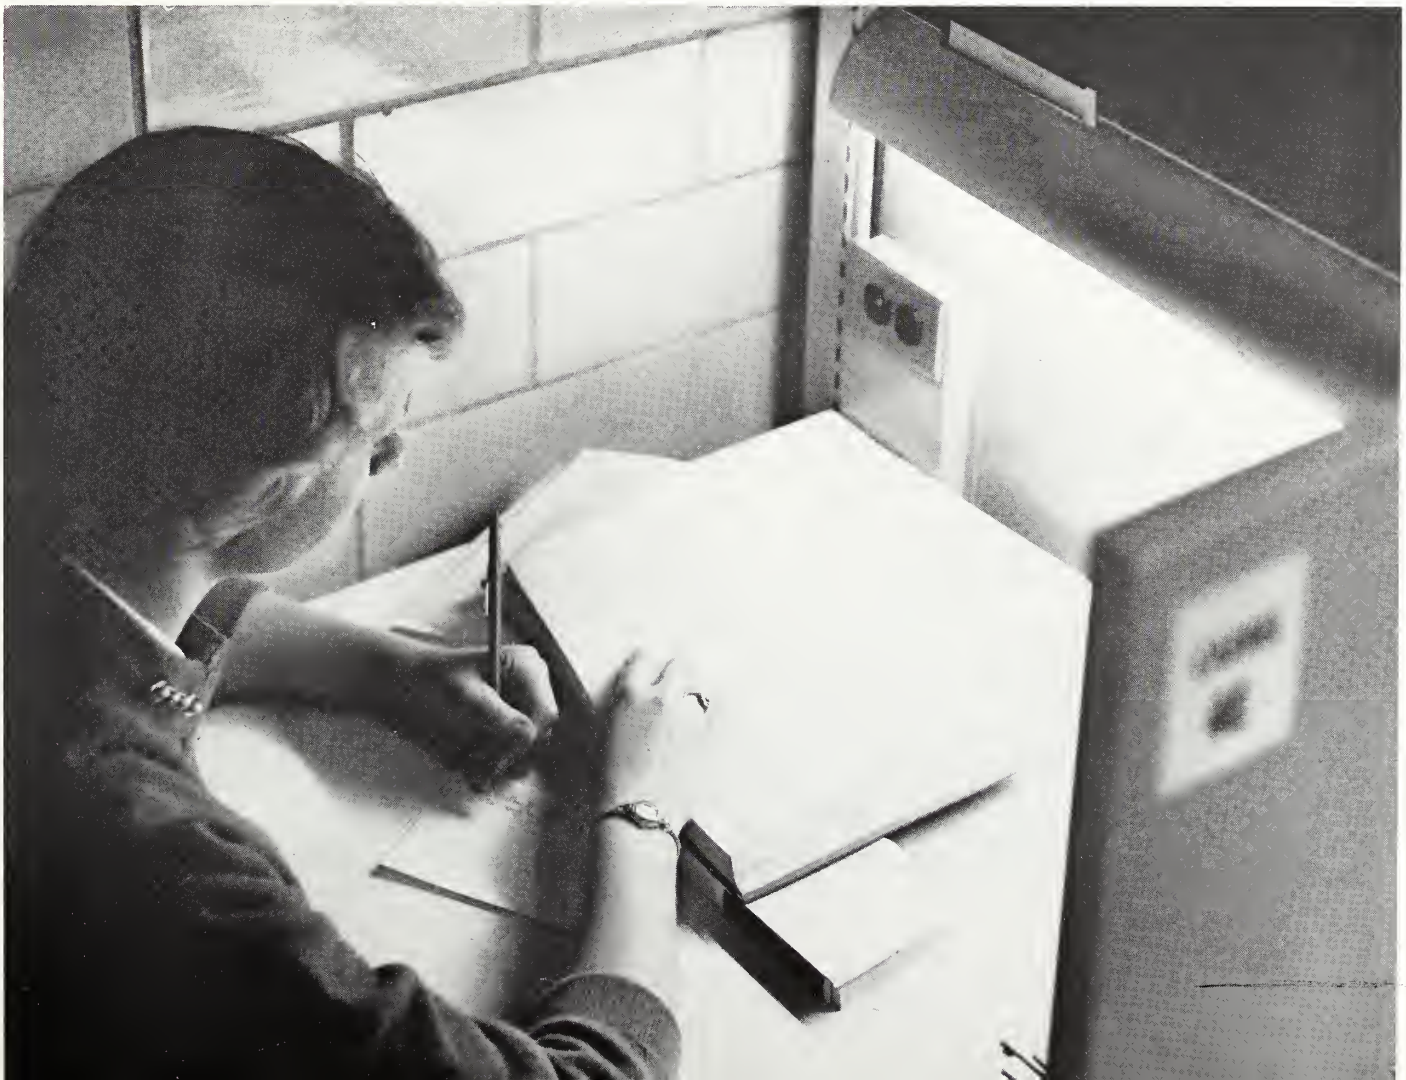

Led by Joe Prombo, a group of graduate students discuss special problems related to political science.

Objectives unknown, activities scattered and unorganized . . . To an advisory board this class picture is a nightmare, one which must be combated until the last day of school, and no one knows better than the Senior Advisory Board that it takes much team work and clear organization to establish a feeling of class unity.

Headed by President Keith Rieger, health and physical education major from Normal; Vice-president Faith Fippinger, special education major from Bellwood; Secretary Carol Deraita, Spanish major from Pekin; and Treasurer Dale Haywood, mathematics major from Edwardsville, the senior class began with a closed dance-party for renewing old acquaintances. Other dances were then held throughout the year for all-school participation. Most noteworthy in their activities, however, was the suggestion presented to Commencement Board on the revision of graduation. Previously, degrees were issued to each student, but under the new plan, mass graduation would occur, allowing time for a distinguished guest speaker.

JUNIOR ADVISORY BOARD

Did you ever hear of a "Holey" Soc Hop or Twerp Week? This year's junior class, led by President Bob Carter, business major from Kankakee, Vice-president Don Carlson, mathematics major from McNabb, Secretary Donna Goldsworthy, art major from Oak Park, and Treasurer Pat Zittle, elementary major from Springfield, decided that they would hold an all-school dance following the Homecoming game in November. Holey socks supplied a unique and appropriate decoration. With more members participating than ever before, other record dances were held, plus the added enjoyment of having a Homecoming float, a junior class party, and finally Twerp Week. This last spring even allowed the guys the honor of being treated by the gals and was climaxed by an informal dance. With the proceeds from these dances, the Junior Advisory Board then prepared to hold the best spring prom ever presented on this university campus.

Under the capable leadership of President Mike Doren, a mathematics major from Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Vice-president Chris Mason, a special education major from East Peoria; Secretary Gayle Malone, an English major from Kempton; and Treasurer Sandy Allen, a mathematics major from Palos Heights, members of the Sophomore Advisory Board joined in a powerful effort to achieve their ultimate goal—raising the general prestige of the class and of the University. To attain this objective, they followed the principles of true democracy, providing an effective student government in which all, not just a chosen few, could participate. One of their innovations was a meeting before the spring elections, allowing every class member an opportunity to see and hear candidates for future offices. Sophomores also obtained recognition for their class by working long hours during Homecoming, and, consequently, producing the biggest and finest Homecoming Queen's Float in Illinois State history. In addition, they sponsored two informal dances, a Women's League Carnival booth, and a Sophomore Cotillion.

FRESHMAN ADVISORY BOARD

Novices in those experiences popularly termed as a "college education" are incoming freshmen. To help these students become initiated to college life, provide them with social activities and generally organize the class into a coordinated portion of the student body is the duty of the Freshman Advisory Board. Leadership for this thirty-six member organization was enthusiastically provided by President Richard Rounds of Rockford in undecided curriculum, Vice-president Natalie Moshonas of Freeport in art, Secretary Pat Kuybida of Hinsdale in elementary education, and Treasurer Marcia Willock of Pekin in undecided curriculum. Paramount in Board-sponsored activities were the freshman after-game dances, a booth at the Women's League Bazaar, and the freshmen second semester dance. Proving to be both a successful and influential body, members of the Advisory Board actively portrayed their motto: "Think alone—decide together—act as one." Besides this saying, Board members also chose the colors blue and white to represent the class in its four years of study, work, play, and activities.

With the copy and pictures all in its place, Sue Rutschman, Arie Greenleaf, Joy Knox, Bob Davis, Kay Kunze, and Dewey Yaeger make their final check before the pages are locked into position and the Index goes to press.

The Work Is Over...

And gone are the days and nights of fighting deadlines and hoping desperately that we would not be late. Now, as this book is being distributed, we see the finish of a great team effort, the coordination of thought and talent, the meeting of a challenge in our college lives.
